DEDICATION

The tragic assassination of our late President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, already a bleak page in our nation's history, was an event that we, as seniors at Sts. Peter and Paul High School, will never forget. As a tribute to his name and his energetic defense of the youth of America, we are dedicating the 1964 TROJAN to him.

Aside from all political or religious convictions, no one can deny that John Kennedy had an exalted sense of values. He was a man of great vision - his insight into the problems facing contemporary America was difficult to equal. He saw our nation in light of its place in history.

We, as students preparing to meet the tremendous challenge of the future, can find in Mr. Kennedy an example for our own lives. Dedication to purpose, a striving for the idealistic, and a warmth of personality, synonymous with John Kennedy in public and private life, can and should become our noble goal.

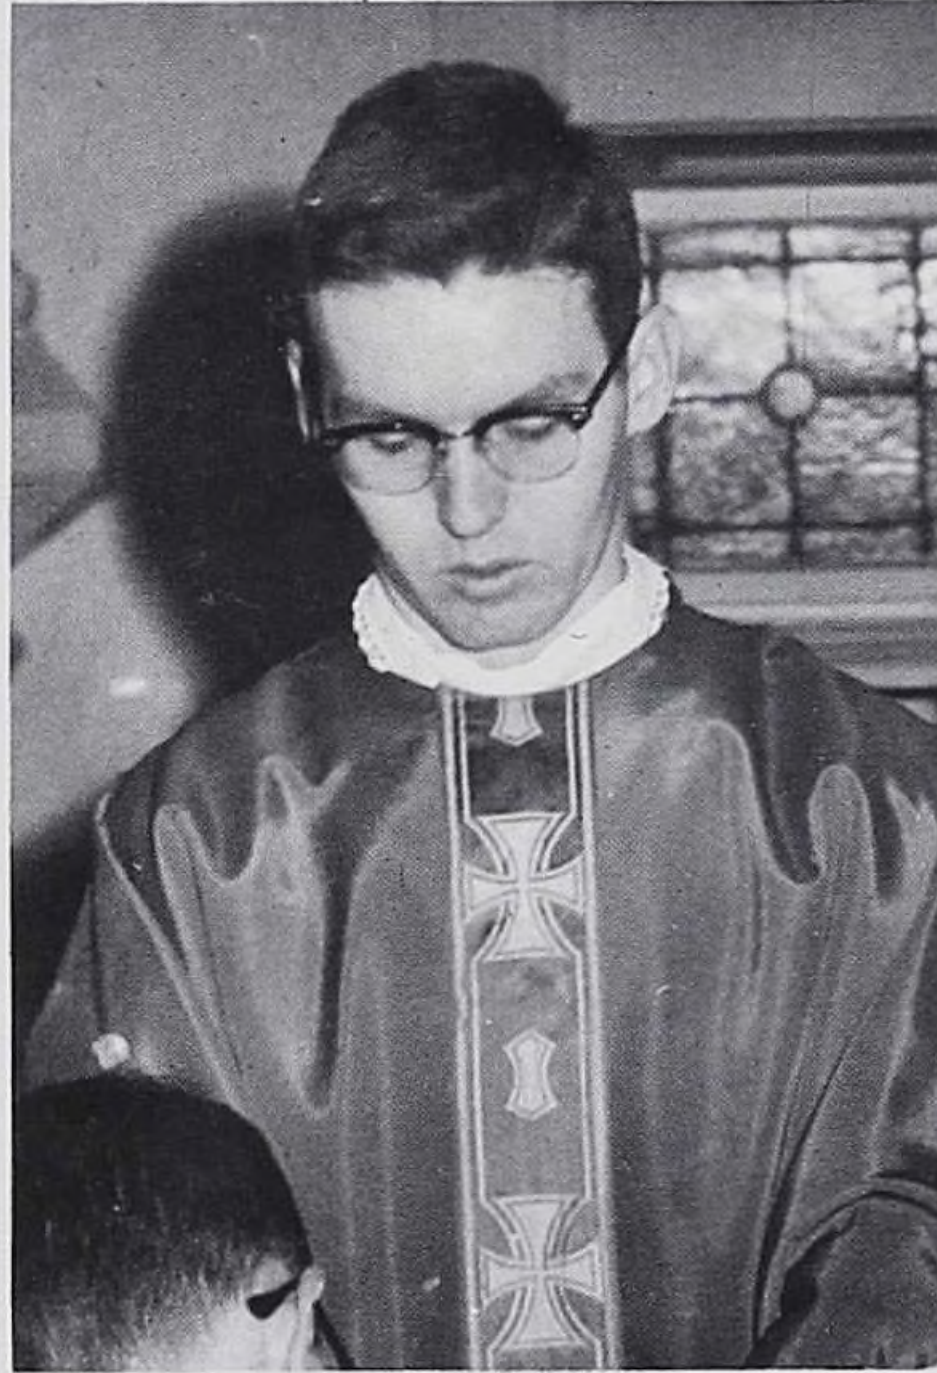

PRESIDENT
JOHN F. KENNEDY (1961-1964)

FOREWORD

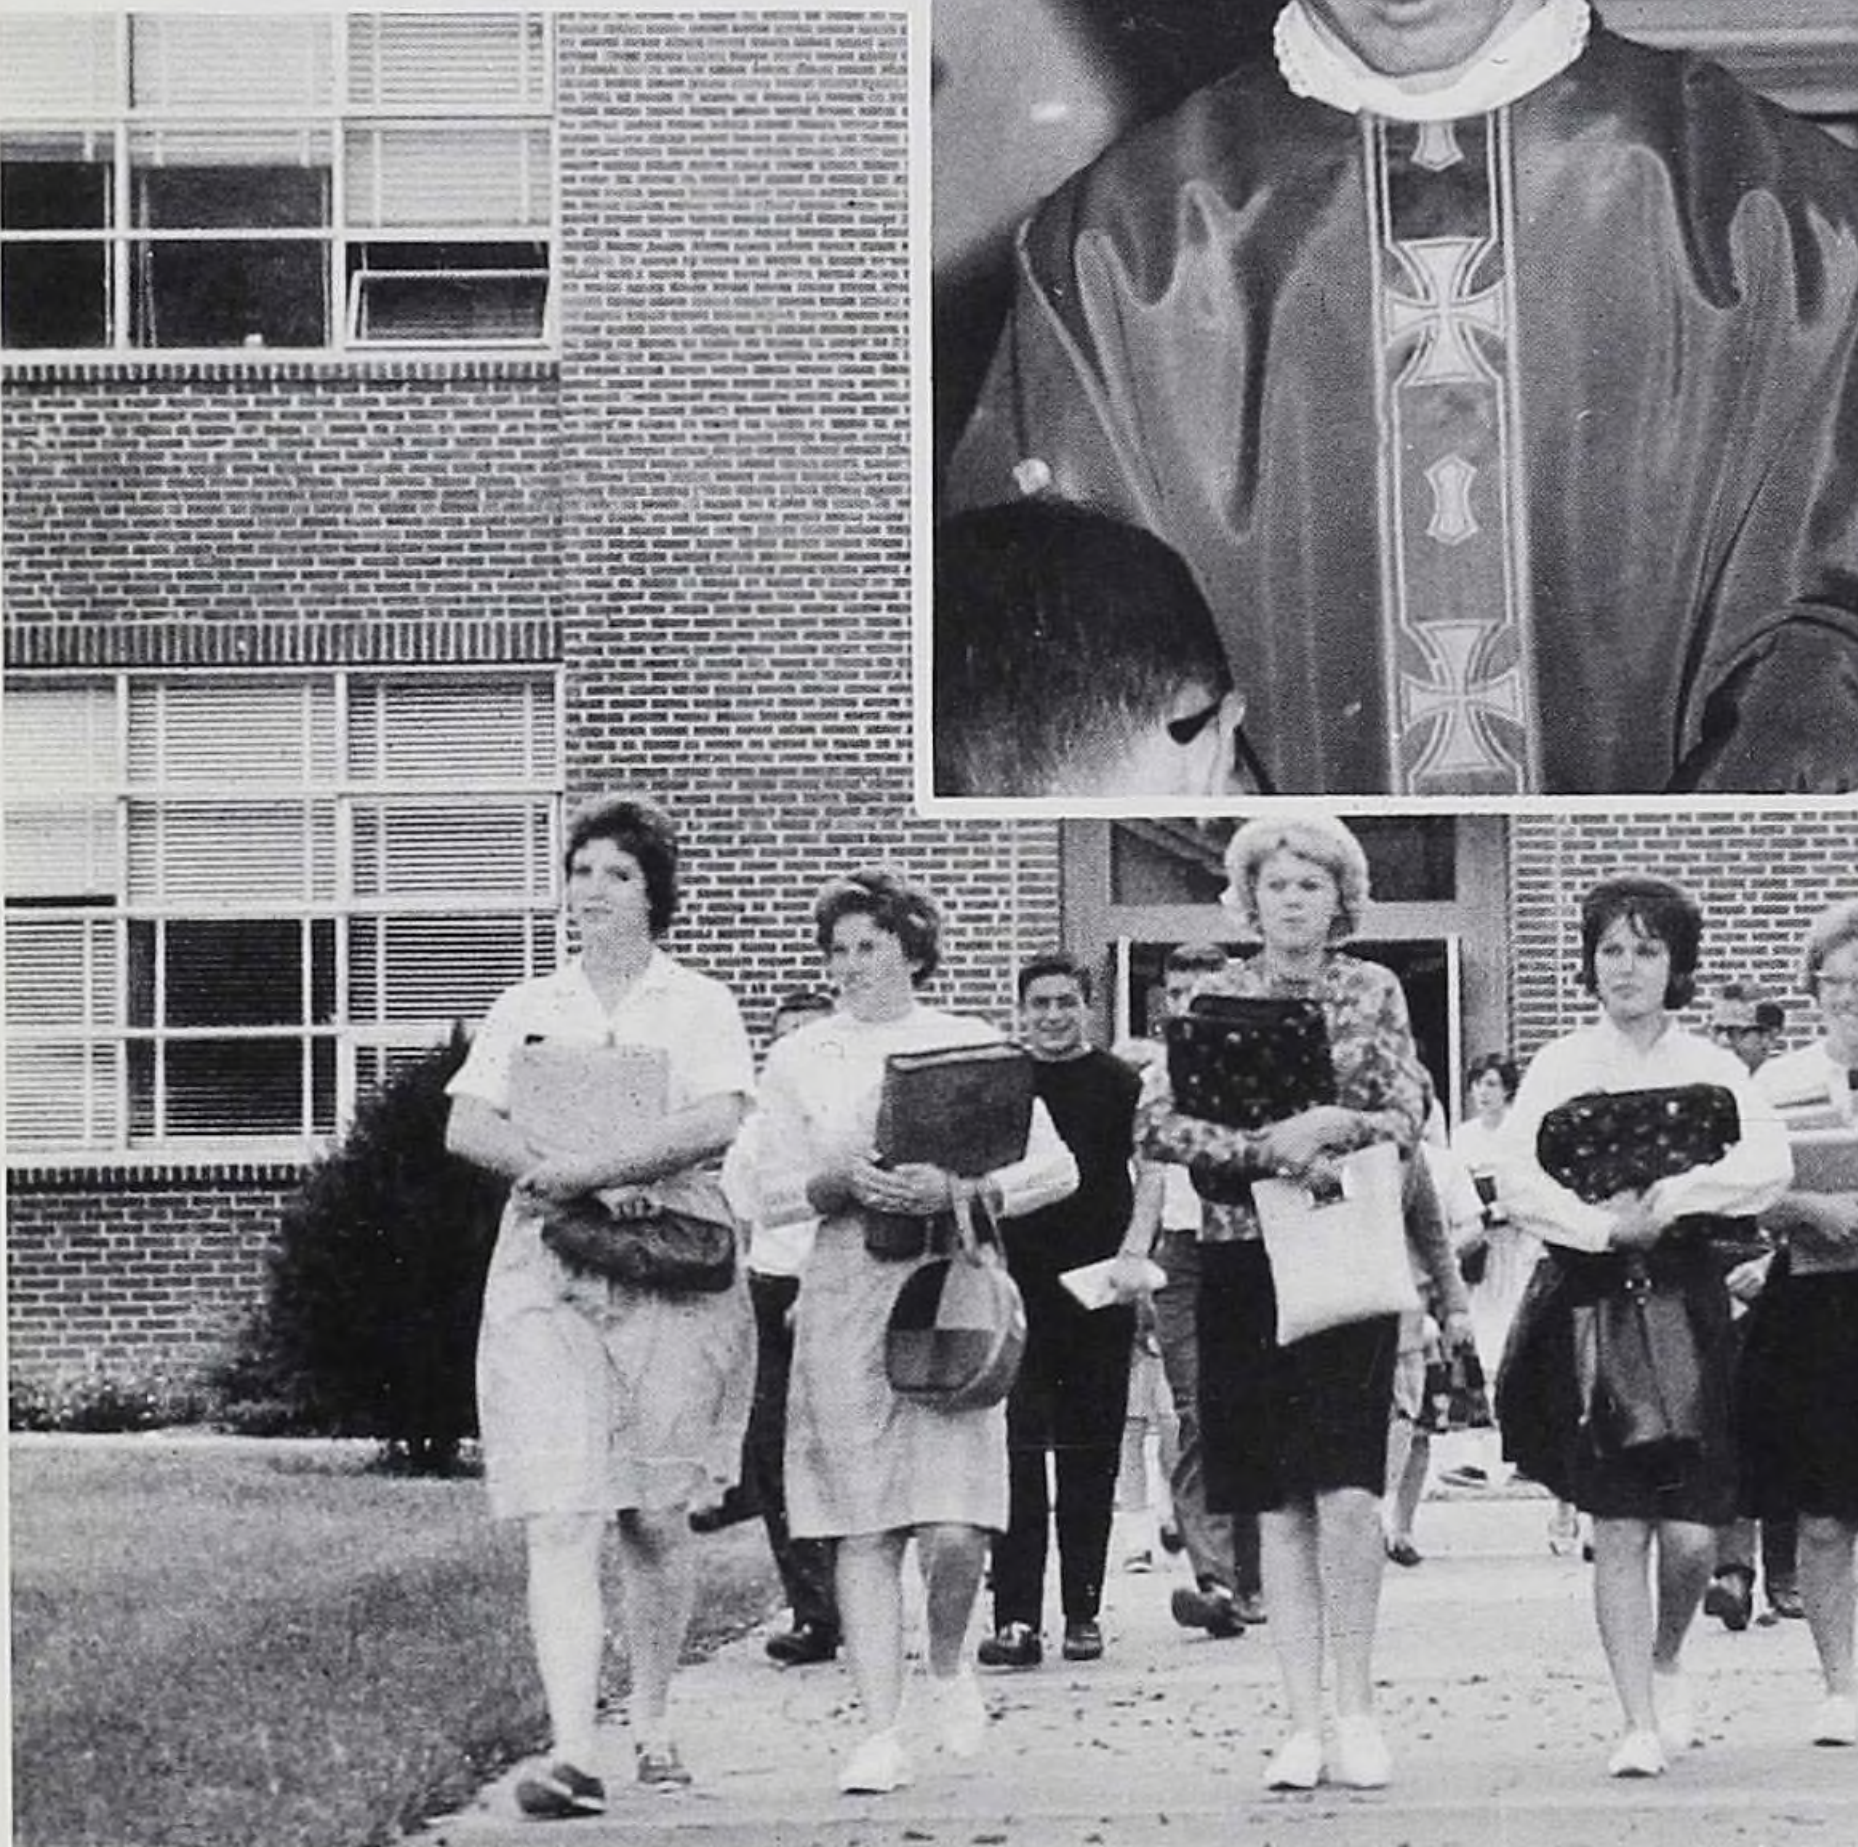

Between the covers of this annual we present to you a composite of a year in the life of a school. A school is no more than the sum of its students; consequently, the 1964 TROJAN is a composite of one year of a student body. Working, playing, praying, together - they are a typical group. They are neither a tightly woven unit nor radical individuals, but in all there is a loose but powerful unity which binds them into one fabric when the occasion demands. In this pictorial history of Sts. Peter and Paul 1963-64, these young men and women are portrayed as the individuals they are striving to become and as the unity which they are. We invite you to enjoy their year as much as they have.

BUSY YEAR FOR STUDENT COUNCIL

Gary Haug and Bruce Adams vigorously campaign for the 1963-1964 offices of president and vice-president of the Student Council which they captured.

Sister Fabiola, principal, discusses Student Council activities with Gary Haug, Student Council president, and Cyril Huerter, senior class president.

Cyril Huerter, Ross Wichman, Bruce Adams, Galen Hermesch, Gary Haug, Delores Mollohan, Jim Fangman, 1962-1963 Council president, and Joyce Gudenkauf mount the steps to give their lively campaign speeches.

CLASS OFFICERS

The many and varied junior class activities are transformed into solid action by Bev Gudenkauf, president; Steve Kongs, treasurer; Paul Boeding, vice-president; and Diane Wempe, secretary.

Chosen to execute the functions of the sophomore class are Diane Ronnebaum, secretary; Jon Buser, president; Ardys Fangman, vice-president, and Mary Haverkamp, treasurer.

Senior representatives are: Cyril Huerter, president; Galen Hermesch, treasurer; and Wayne Stuke, vice-president.

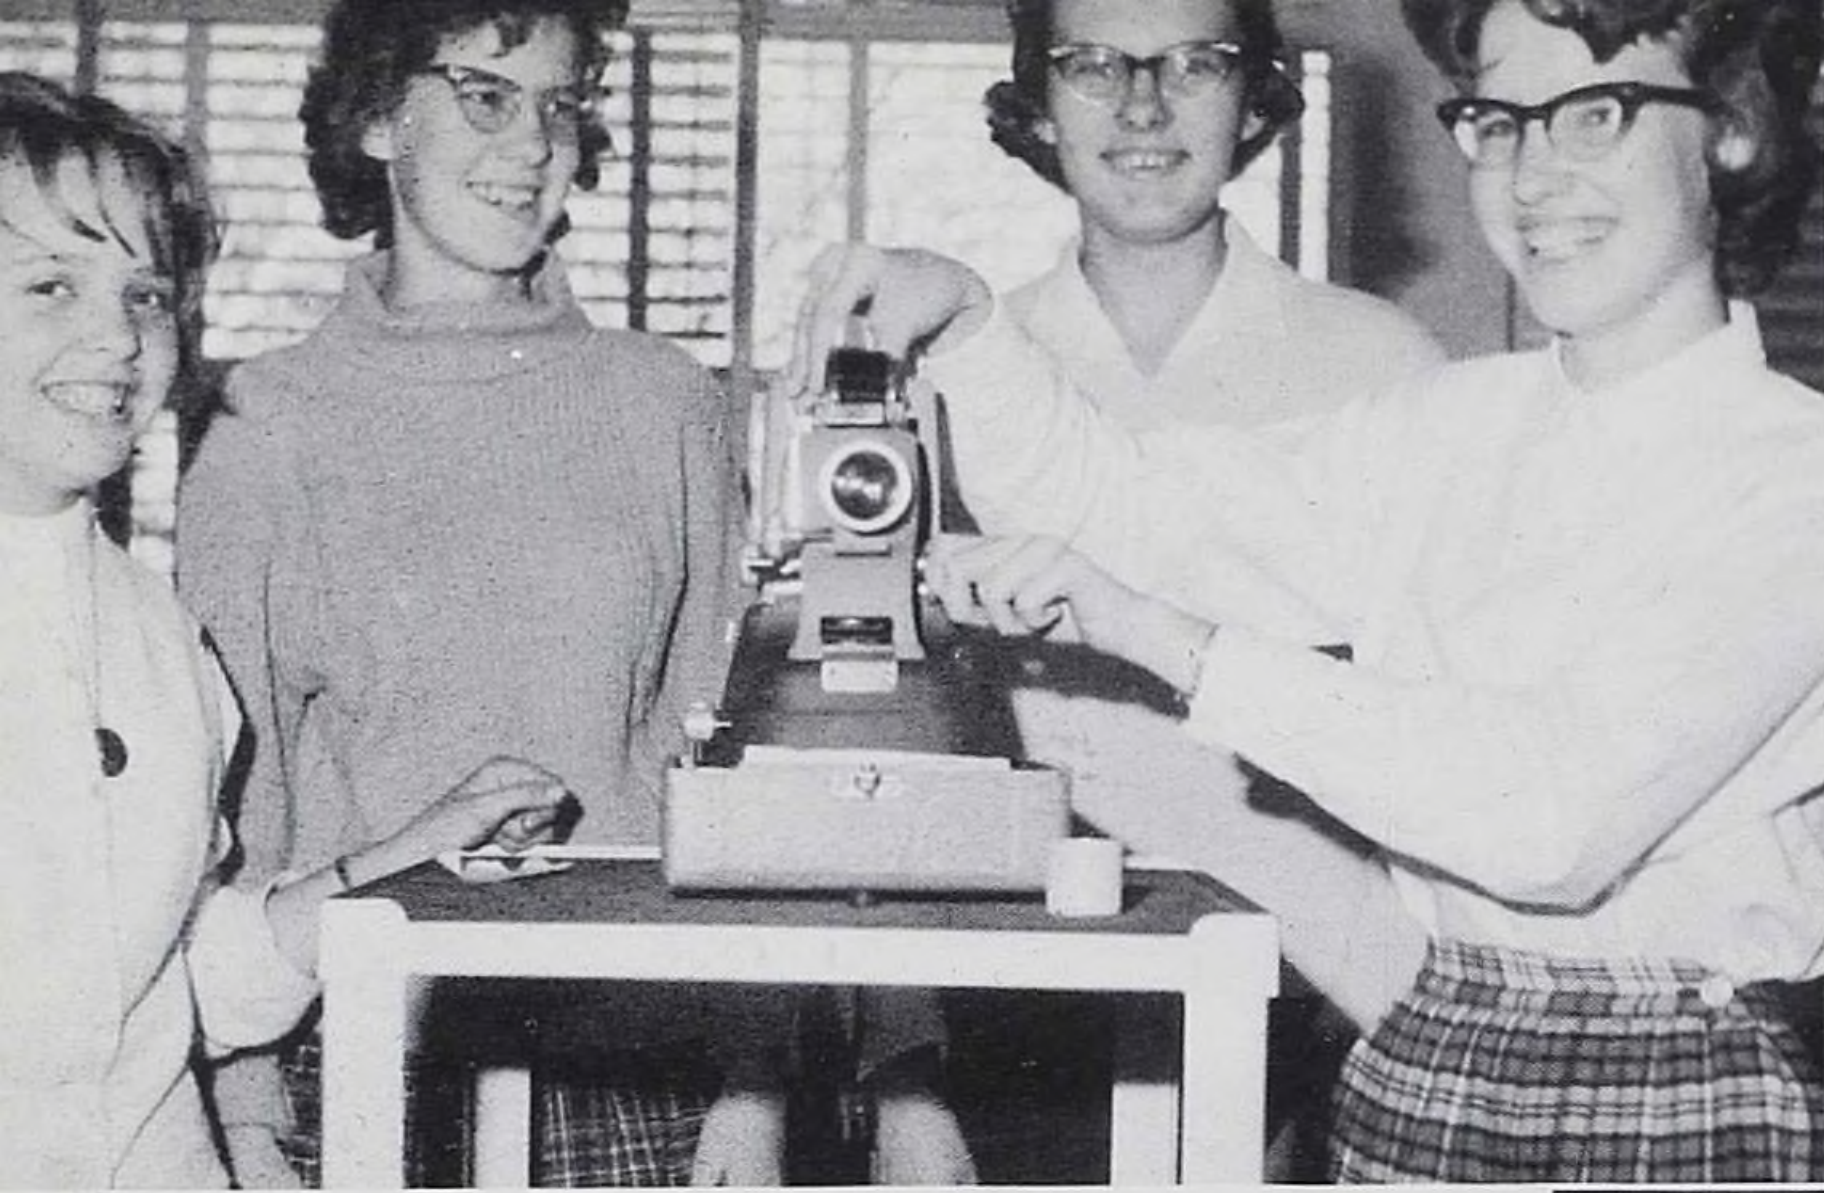

The freshman foursome includes: Steve Wempe, president; Bob Claas, vice-president; Betty Holthaus, treasurer; and Judy Lackey, vice-president.

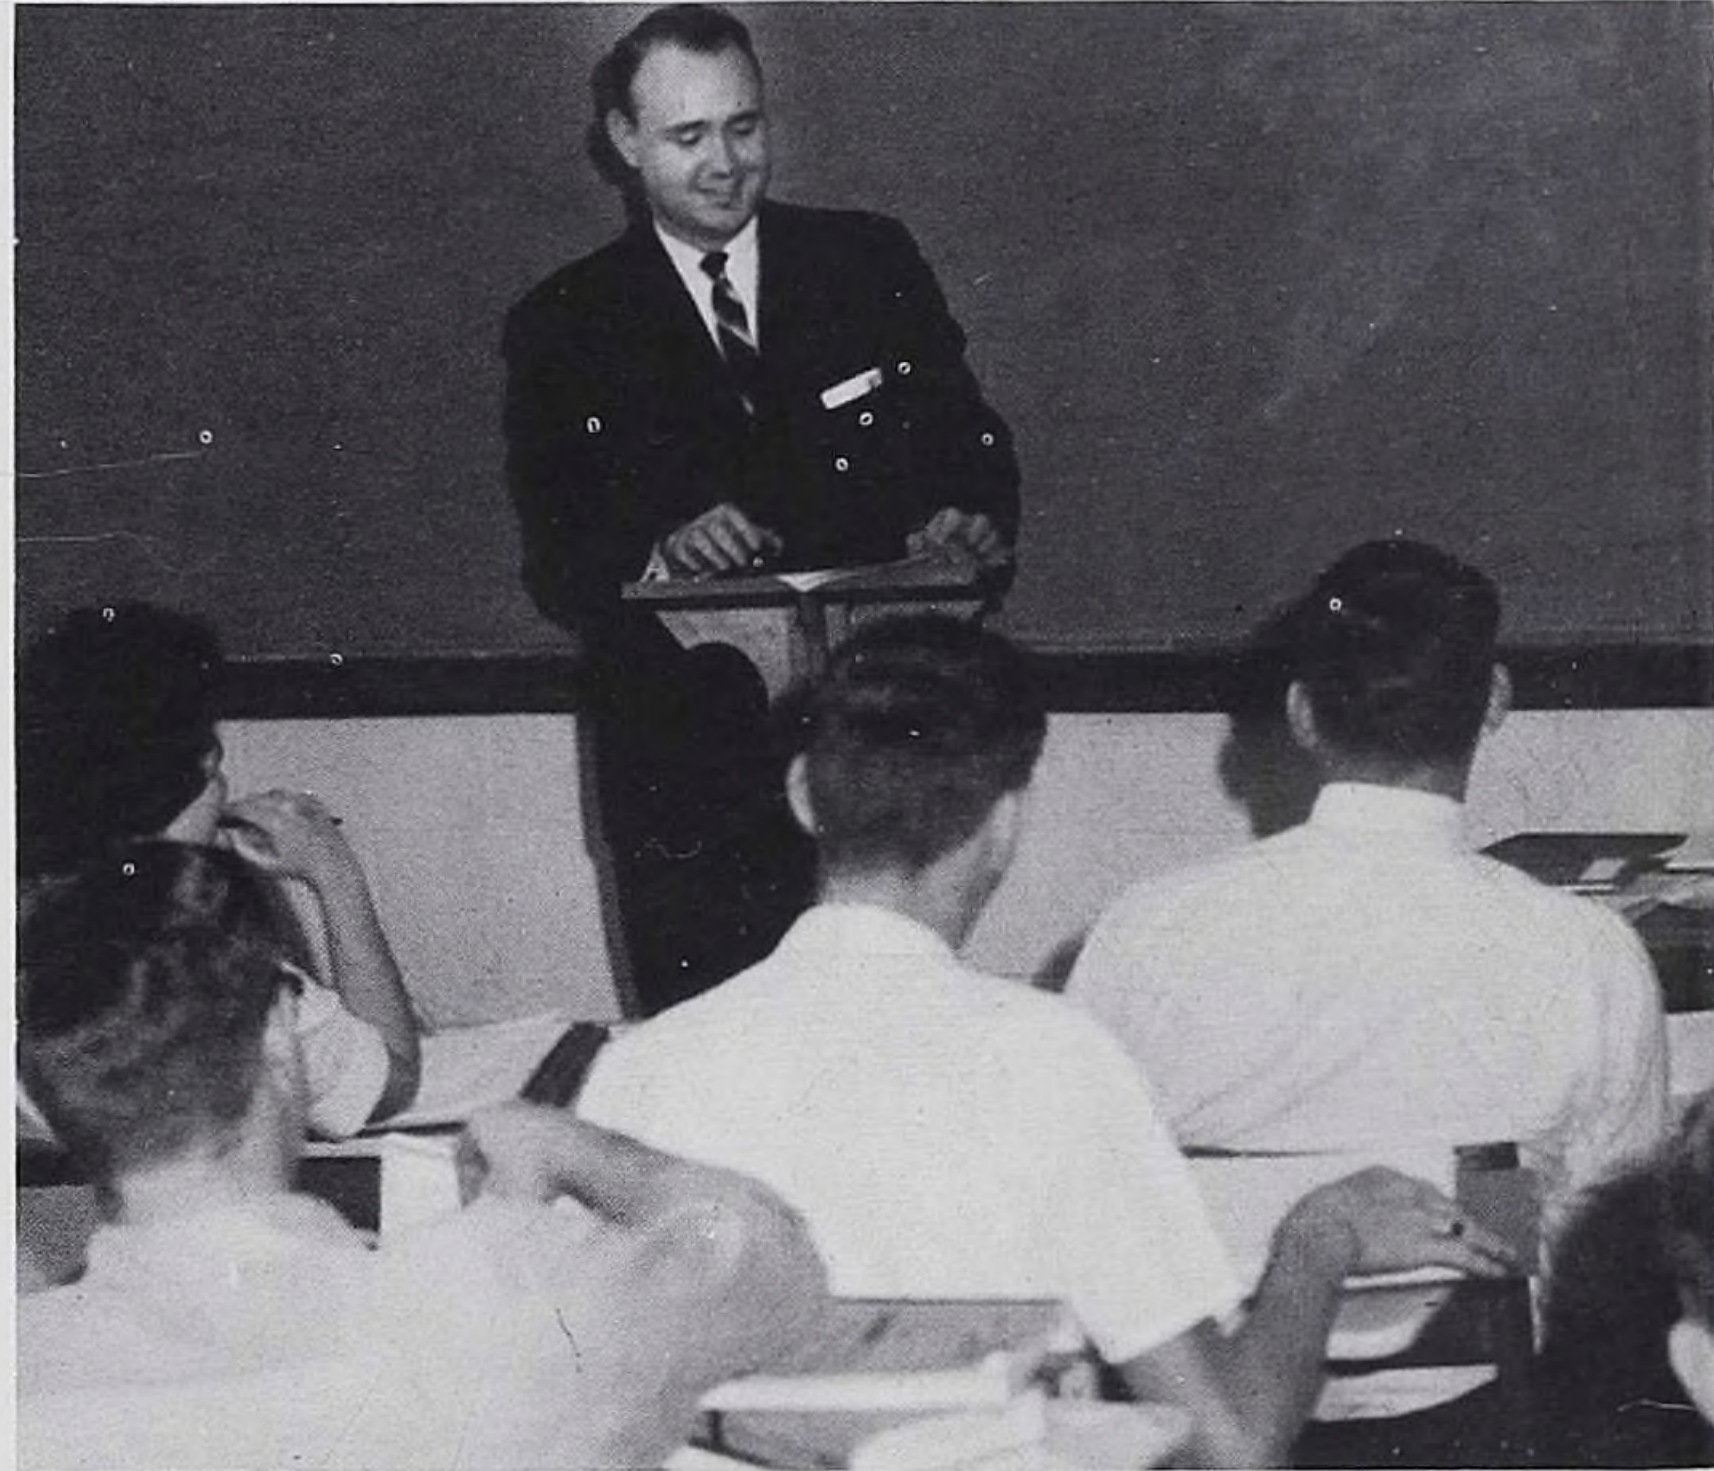

STUDIES

Freshmen Michele Huerter, Donna Ronnebaum, Linda Kramer, and Cheryl Holthaus prepare the slide projector for a short film in world geography.

THE POLITICAL SCIENCES

Terence Kinsella, instructor of the Senior American government class, directs a question to the students. Carol Widman, Galen Hermes, Dick Bedwell, and Andy Gerber are intent on finding an answer.

Maxine Holthaus and Gary Knudson, juniors, supplement their study of American History by keeping up on current world events.

RELIGION INSPIRES STUDENTS

Dick Toby, Dick Bedwell, Bonnie Hylton, Pat Muetting, and Janice Haverkamp appear in earnest as they read a section of St. Mark's Gospel in the New Testament.

Juniors Leon Osterhaus, Wayne Wilhelm, Paul Boeding, and Pat Weber are humored by Father Donald's joke.

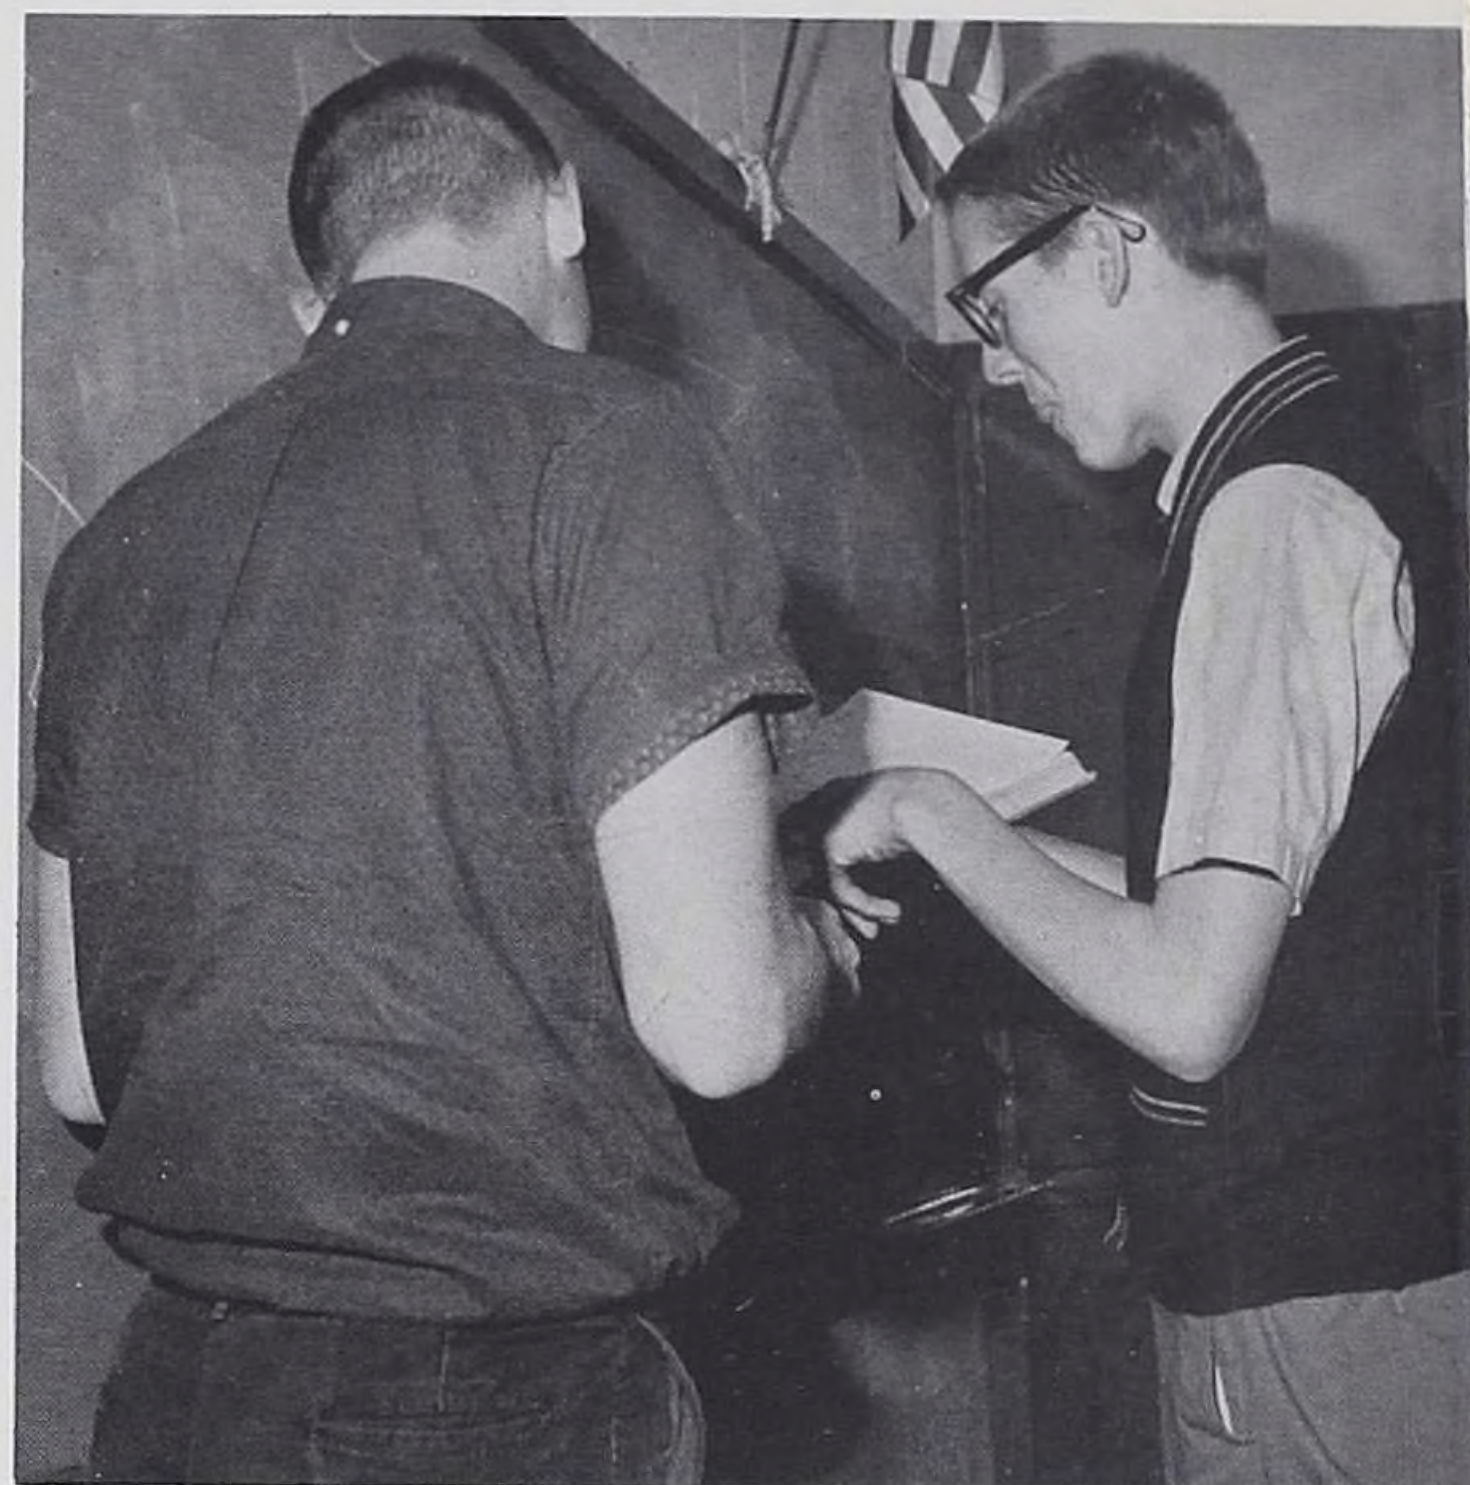

Steve Adams, John Selk, Julie Hermes, and Betty Stallbaumer compare religion I notes from a previous class session.

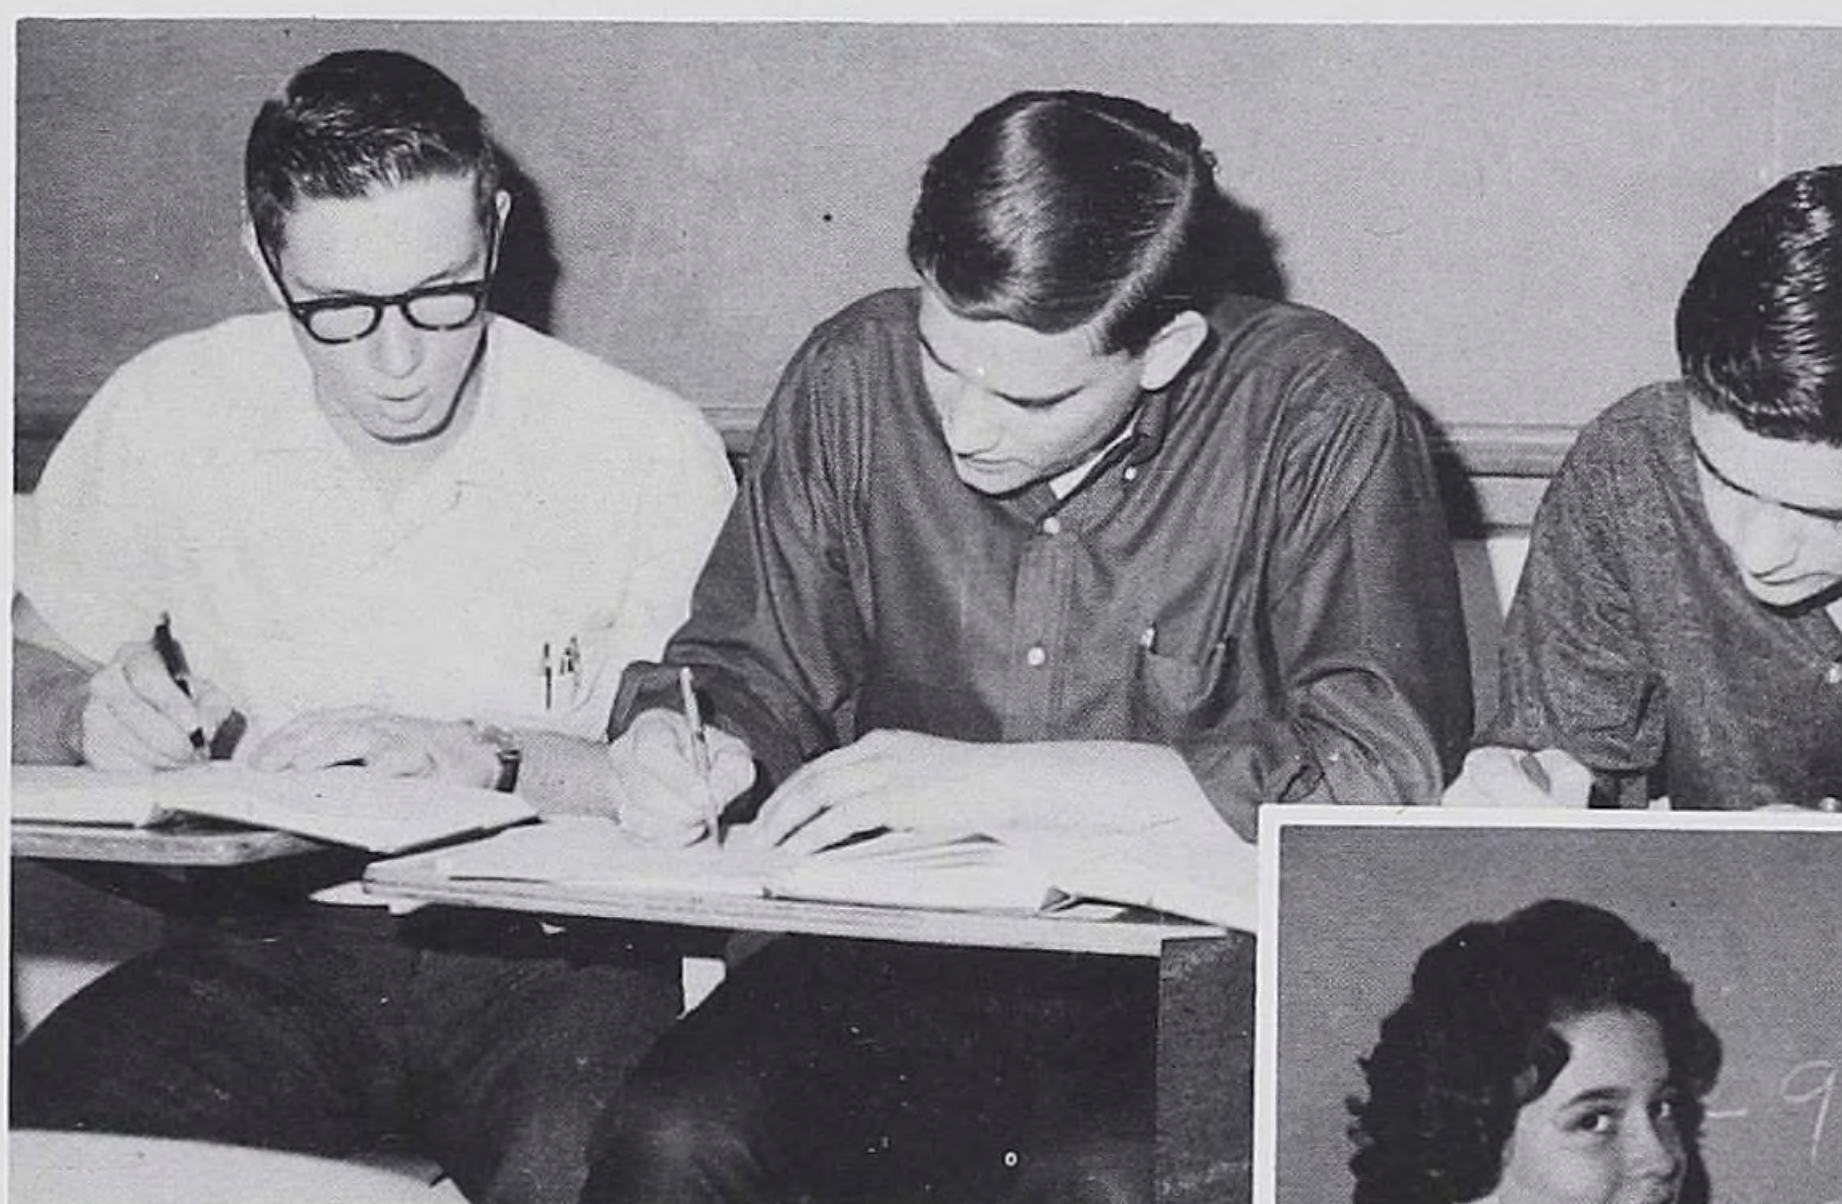

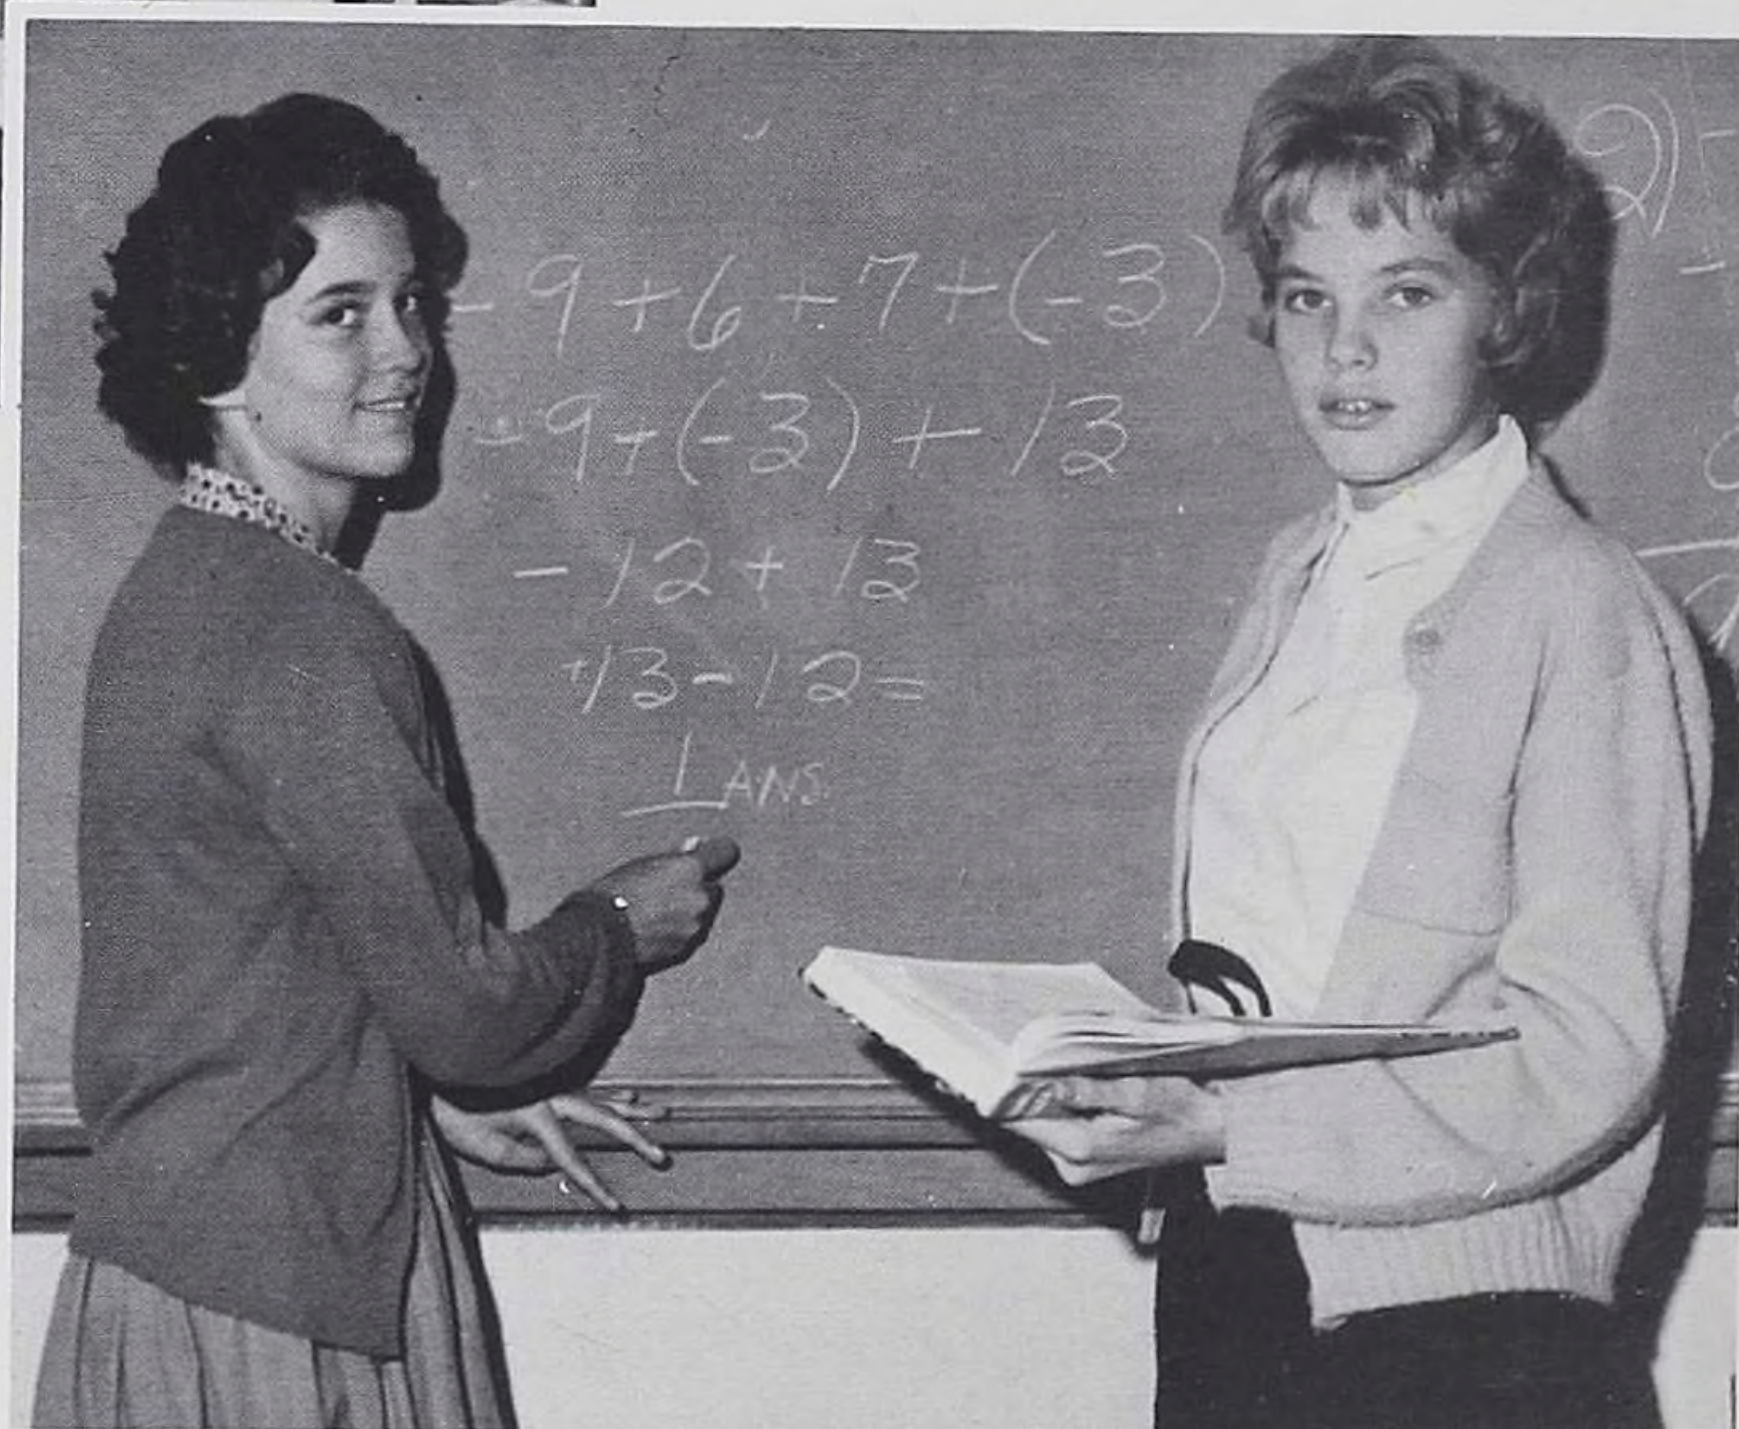

Darlene Shump compares results in bookkeeping with another interested student, Andy Gerber.

Jerry Luebbe and Dan Olberding work together to find a common solution to the tricky thought problem in geometry class.

Andy Gerber, Galen Hermes and Dick Lackey discover that "three heads are better than none" when attempting to solve intricate trigonometry functions.

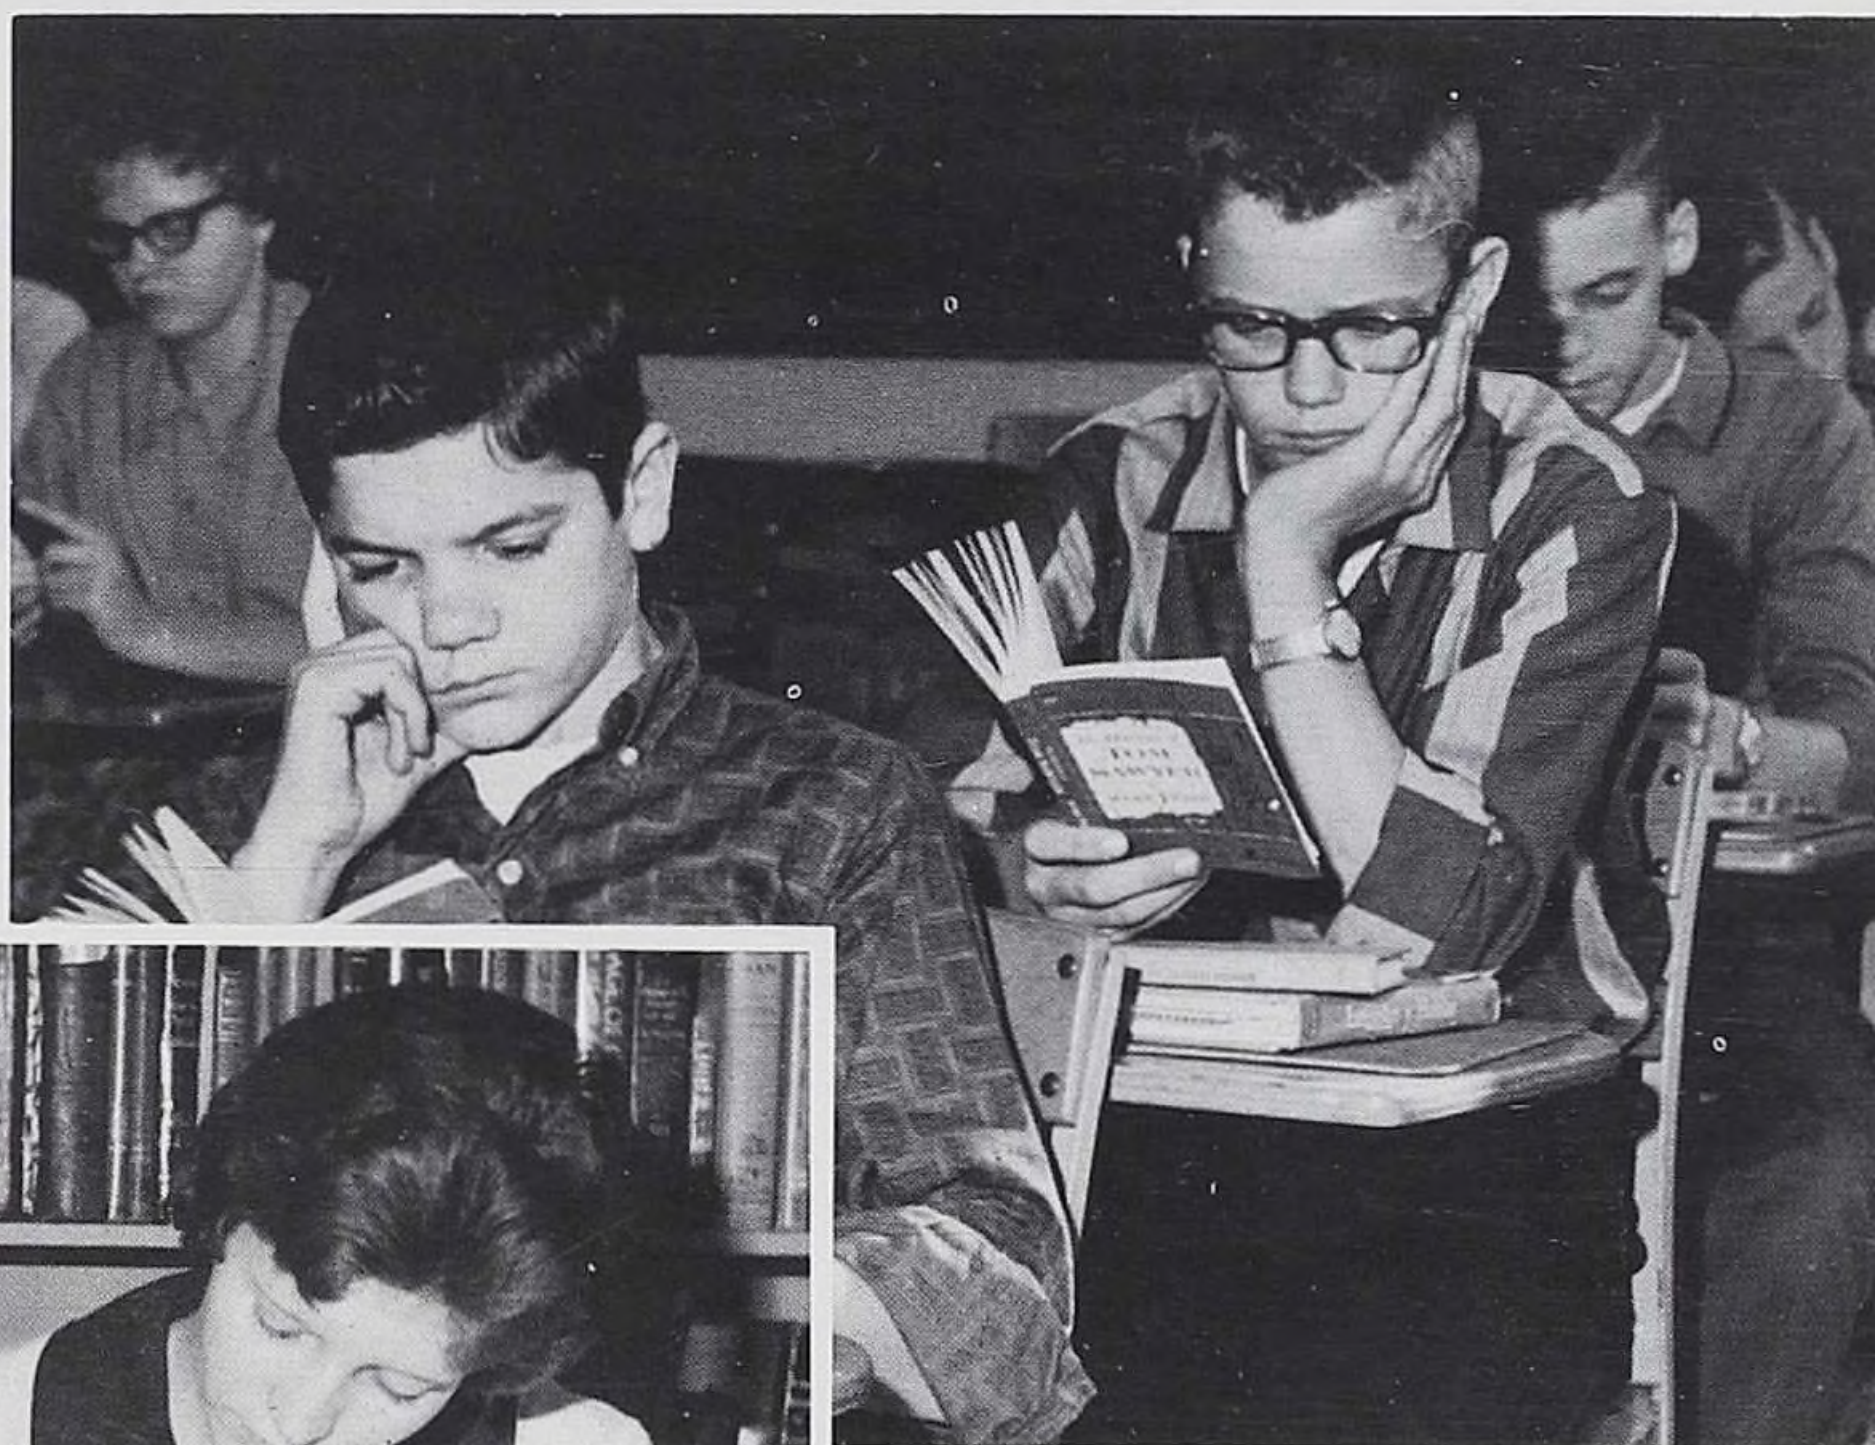

Judy Lackey and Betty Murphy proudly display their correct answers in solving for x in Algebra I.

PURSUIITS IN ENGLISH VARY

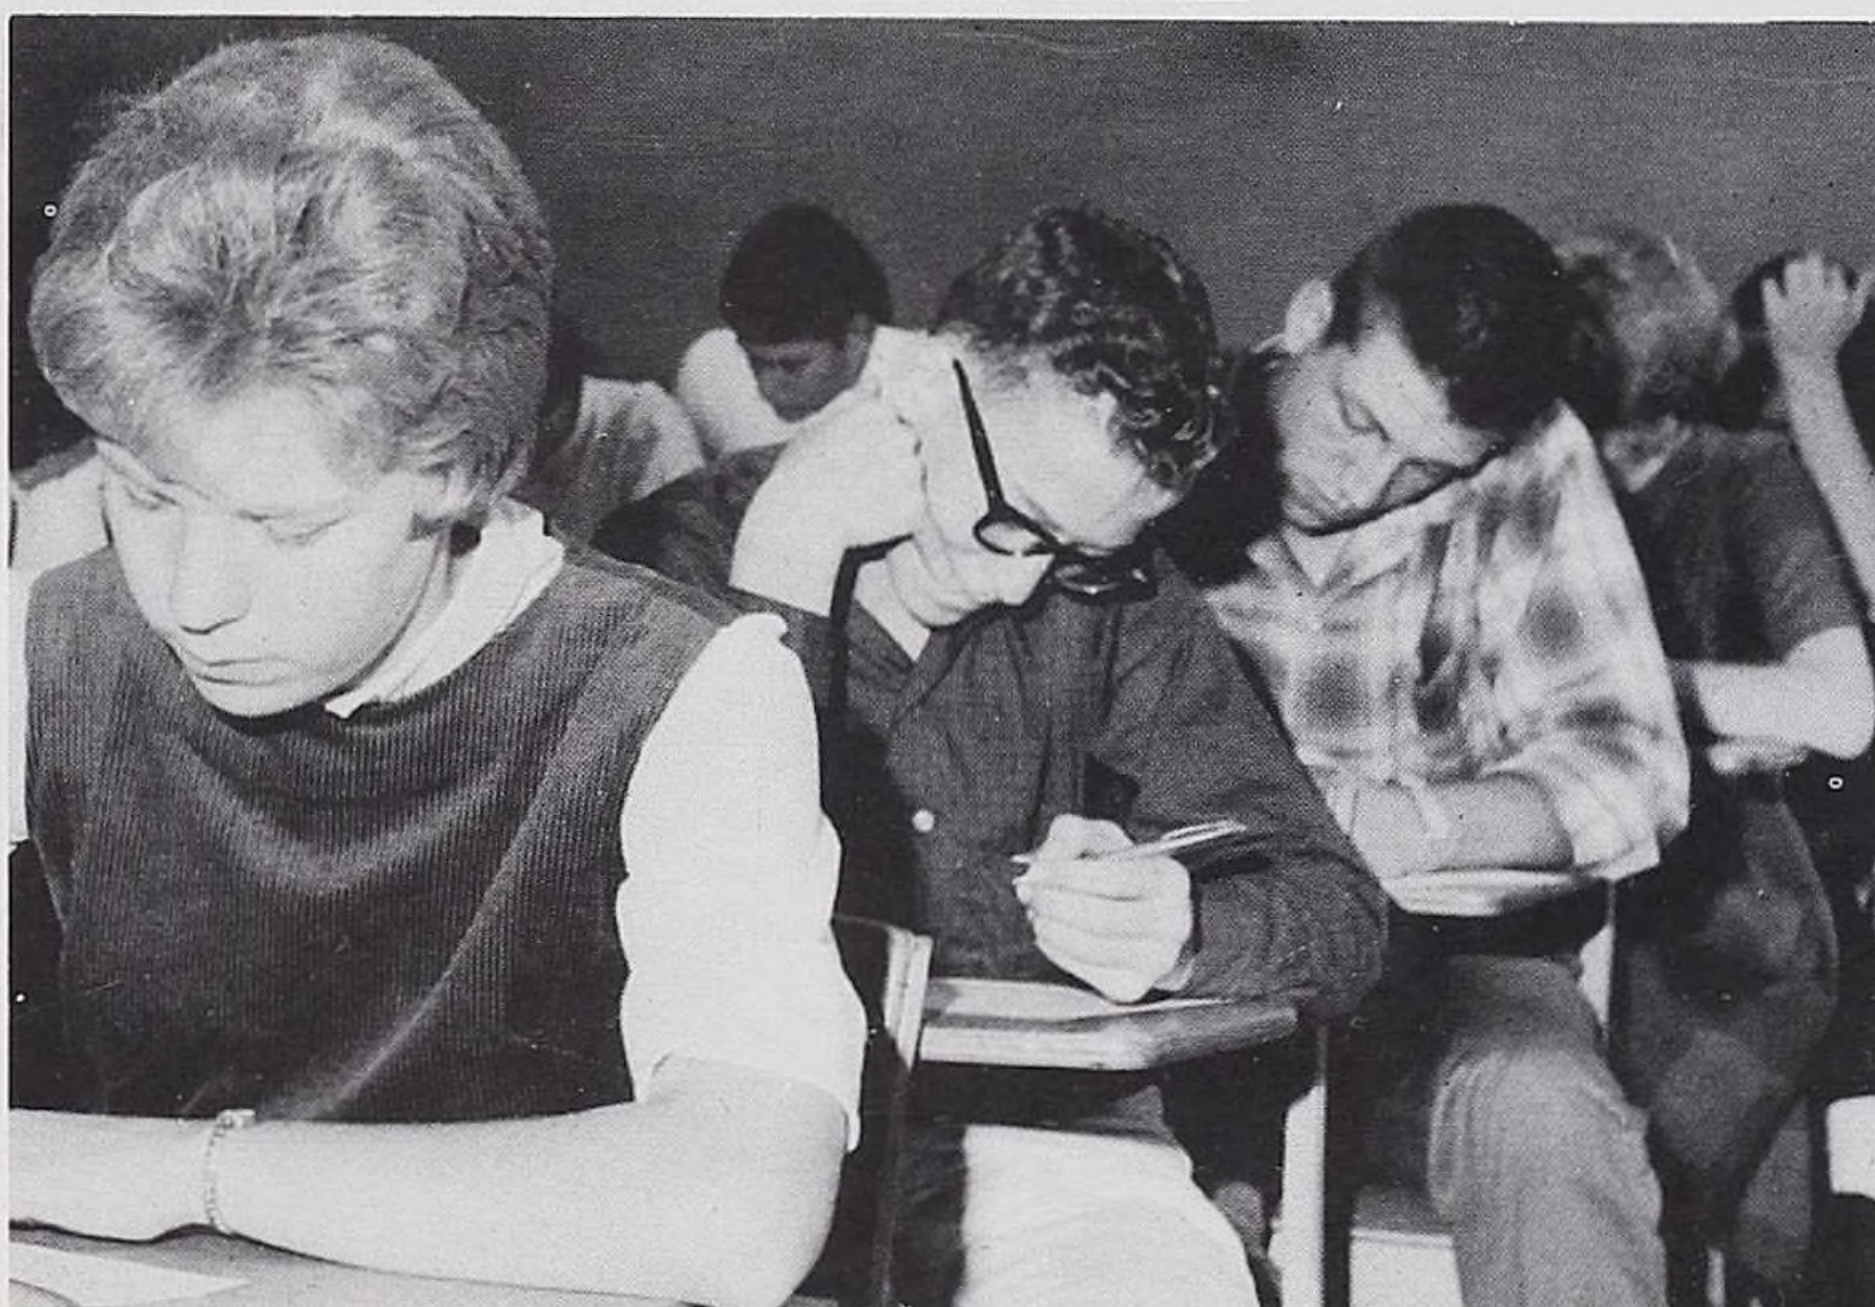

Sophomores Ardys Fangman, Barb Ronnebaum, Linda Olberding, Jane Bennet, Mary Howser, and Mary Lee Haverkamp listen to an English tape, the grim "Tale of Two Cities."

Galen Lackey, Keith Gockel, and Steve Adams, freshmen, are engrossed in the reading of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer."

Seniors Carroll Wichman and Doris Stallbaumer are making progress in their research on a government-related term paper.

Paula Kohake, Clarence Lechner, and Carroll Gudenkauf are engaged in a "tough" junior English Test.

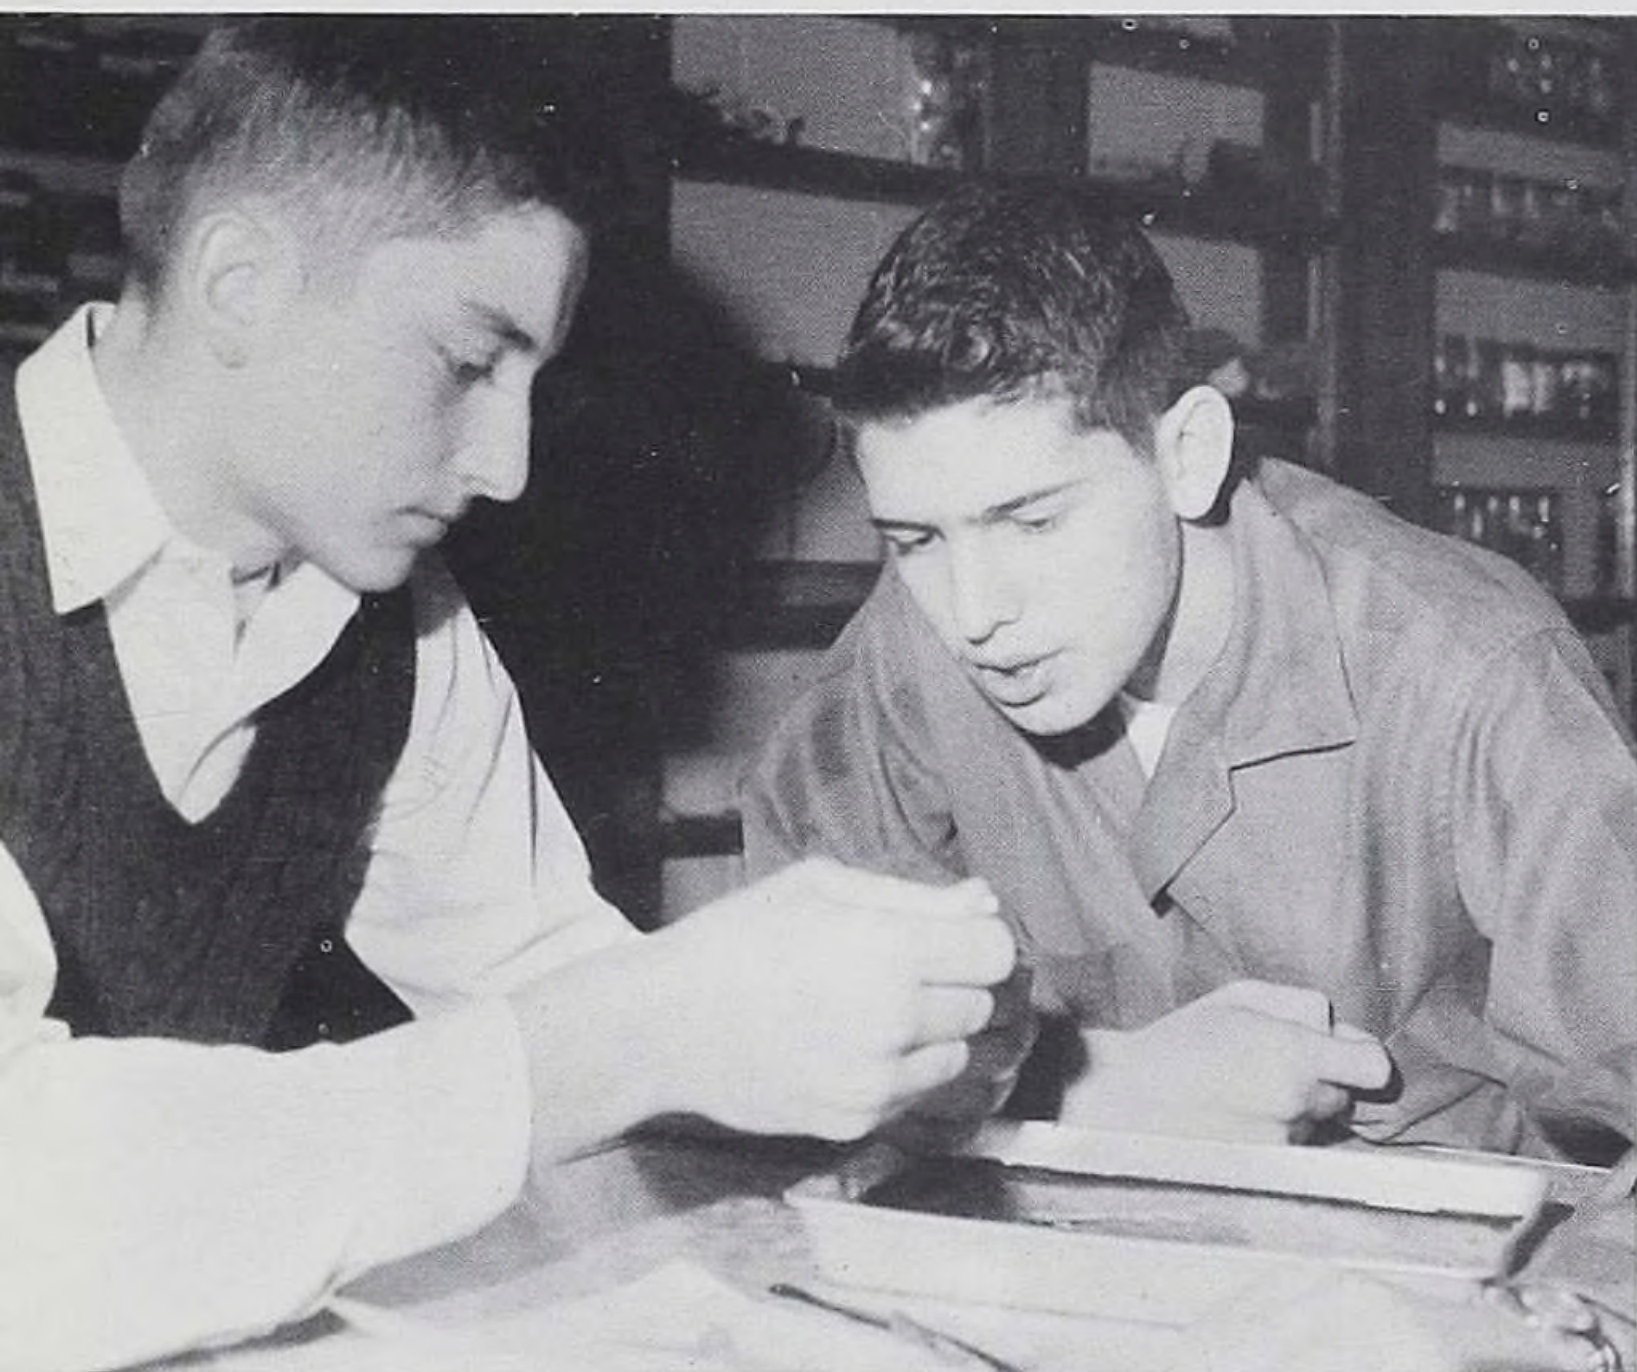

ADVENTURE INTO THE

Bruce Adams and Richard Lackey, senior chemistry students, calculate the acidity of vinegar.

Linda Olberding and Barb Rettele examine the parts of the fish after dissecting it for biology class.

Joe Deters and Daryl Gruneison, juniors carefully study the results of their dissection in biology class.

Preparing to make the first incision in dissecting their fish are Connie Hunninghake and Betty Runnebaum, sophomores.

Cyril Huerter, senior, and Gary Sweetland, junior, read the burette in order to determine the per cent of acetic acid found in vinegar.

WORLD OF SCIENCE

Jim Sauer, junior, and Carol Widman, senior, carefully watch for signs of color change in their titration experiment for Chemistry.

Pat Mueting and Joyce Gudenkauf, seniors, cautiously measure the chemicals needed for a titration experiment.

Sister Margaret Mary, chemistry teacher, instructs Daryl Gruneison and Paul Boeding, juniors, as to the accuracy involved in a successful chemistry experiment.

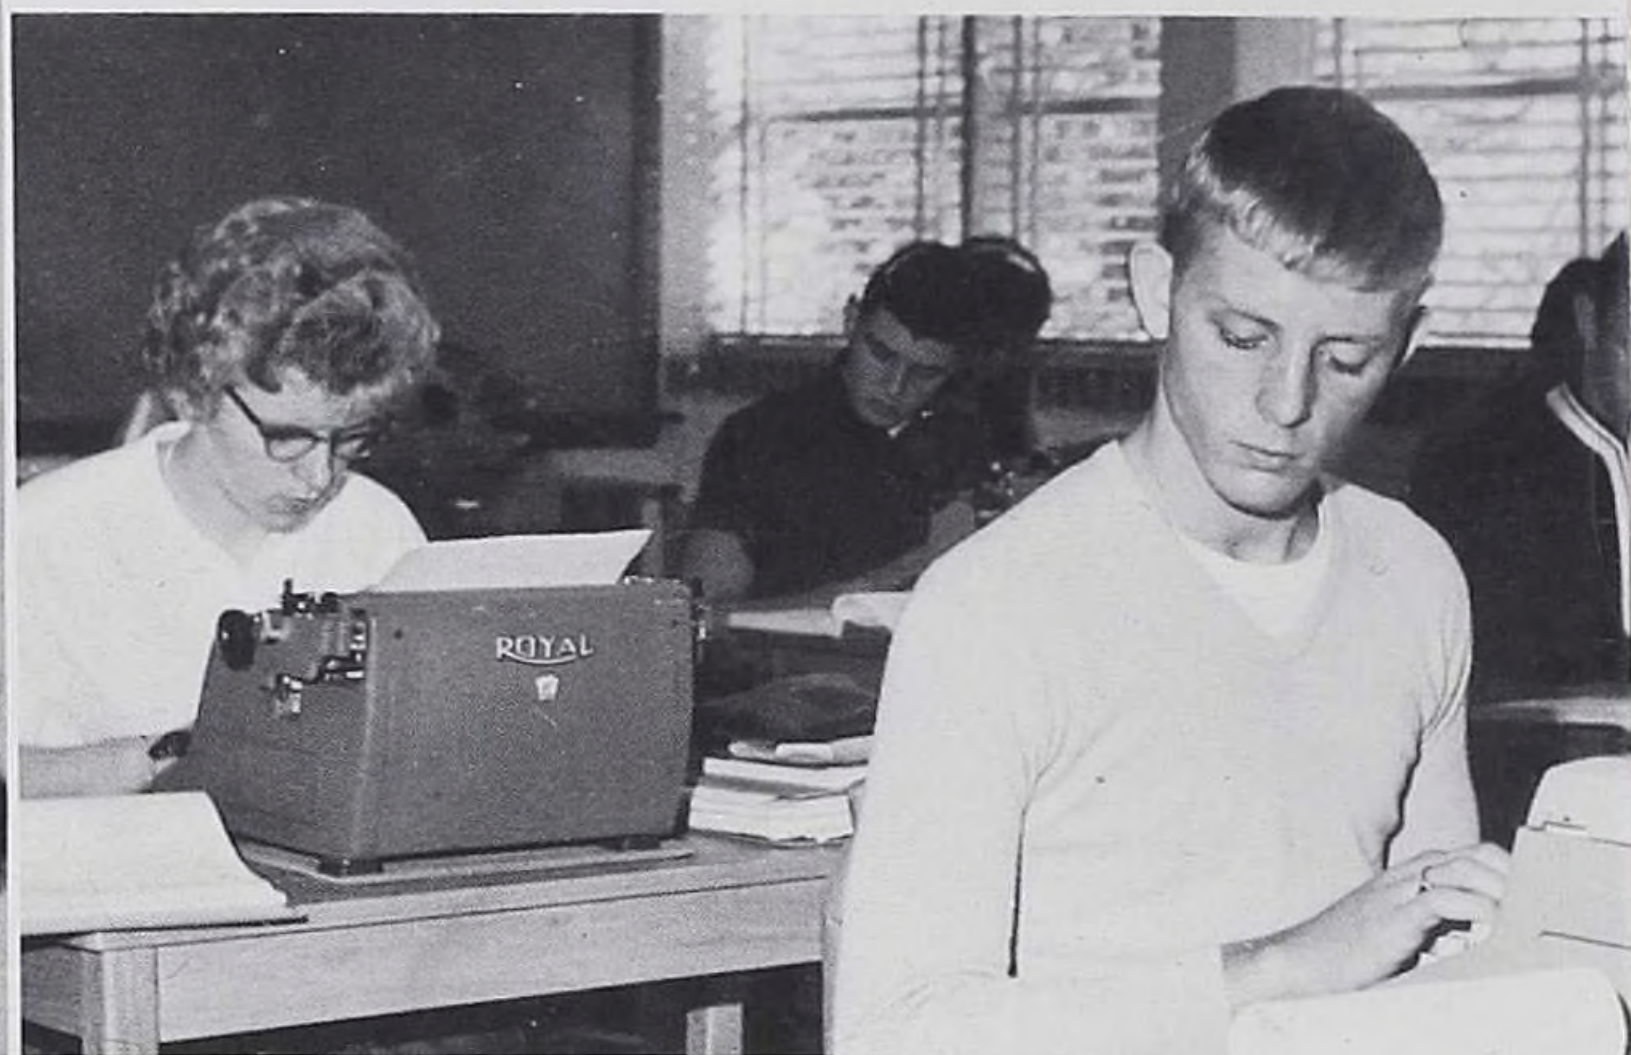

Biologists deeply interested in the details of dissection are Pat Weber, junior, and Steve Stuke, sophomore.

EXCELLING IN THE FINE ARTS

Maxine Holthaus and Judy Muetting roll the dough for the cookies they are preparing to bake in the home economics class.

Pat Muetting, Cyril Huerter, Larry Heinen, and Alan Osterhaus are engaged in the art of "tickling" the keys in Typing 1 class.

Connie Becker places a spoonful of drop cookie batter on the cookie sheet while Linda Muetting looks on at a session in home economics.

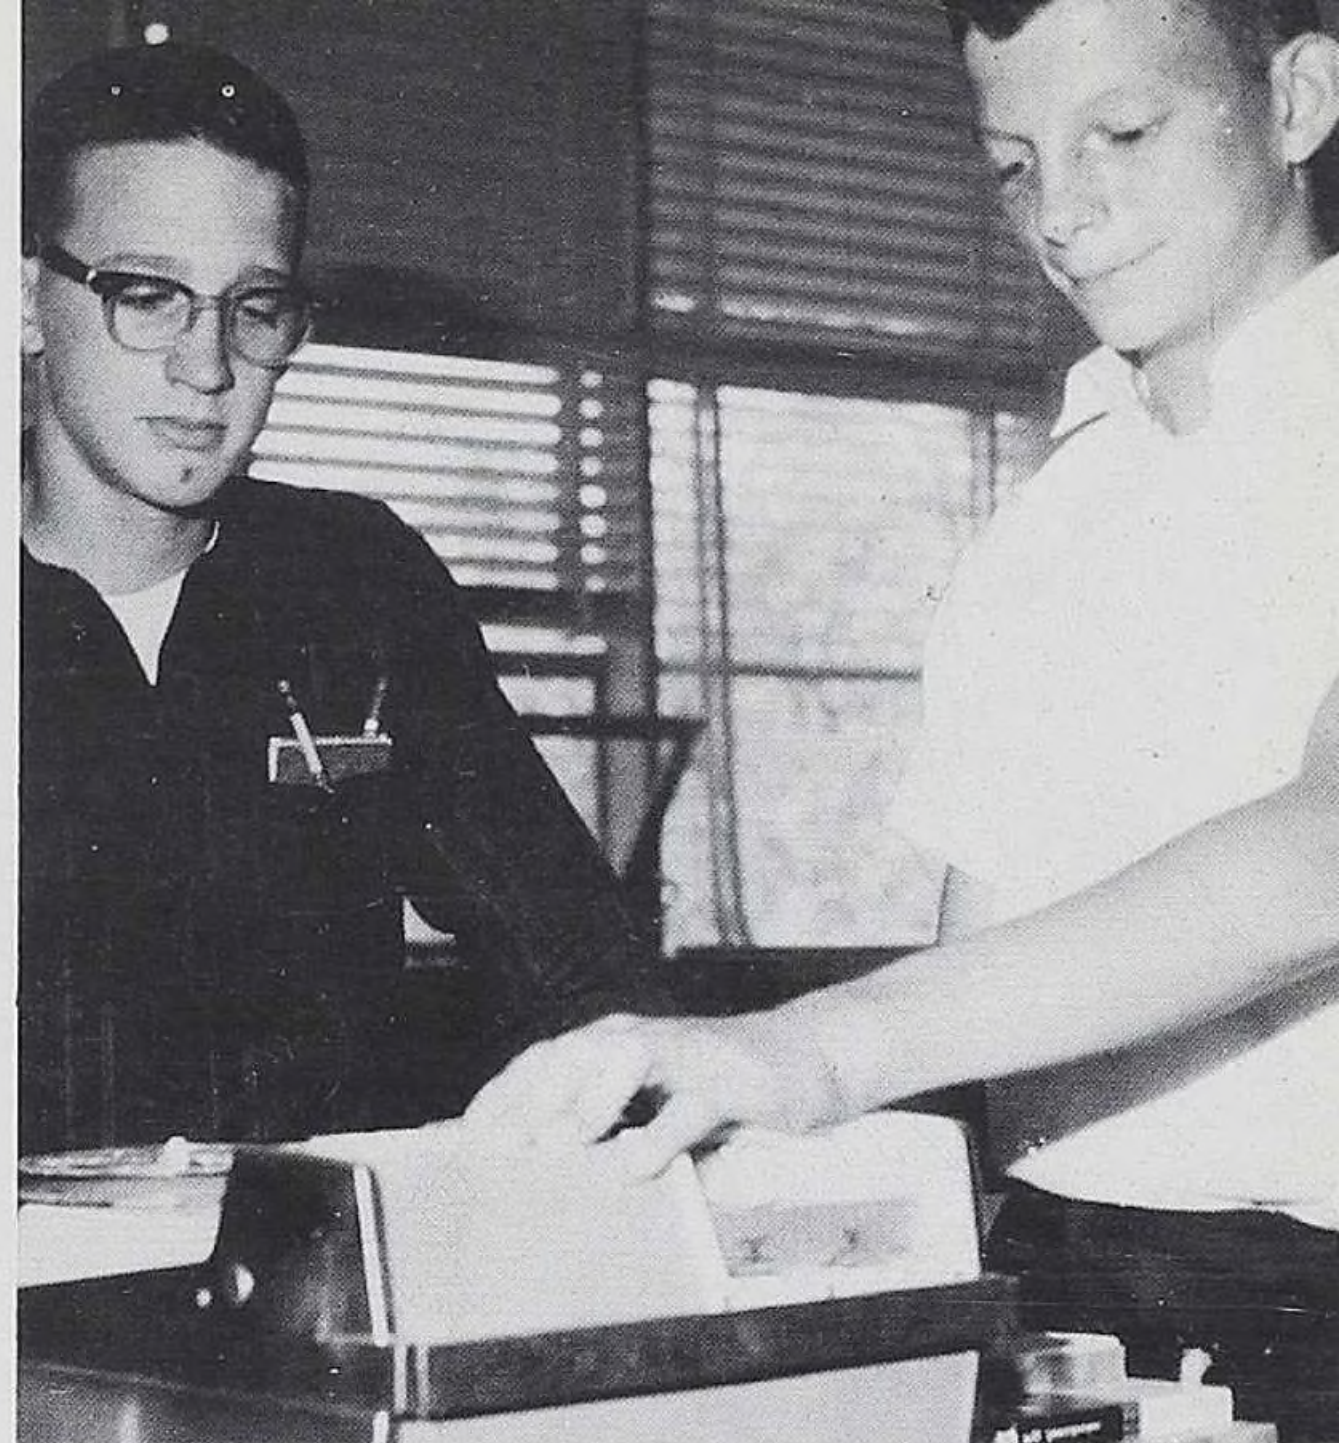

Elaine Lehmkuhl seems intent on her typing.

There's no gaiety in the expressions of Galen Stuke and Larry Osterhaus as they apply themselves to the business of typing in Typing I class.

Beverly Sauer, Tom Henry, Ron Dultmeier, Mary Howser, and Mike Holthaus, Spanish I students, practice the art of table conversation in Spanish.

Steve Koehler, and Rollie Winterscheidt prepare the tape recorder for tapes in Latin I.

LANGUAGES CLASSES

A SONG TO BRIGHTEN THE DAY

The Glee Club would not be complete without the vocal aid of these fourth-year songsters. They are: Richard Toby, Andy Gerber, Alan Osterhaus, Cyril Huerter, Max Huerter, Bruce Adams. Second Row: Doris Stallbaumer, Judy Wempe, Jane Kramer, Darlene Shump, Elaine Lehmkuhl. First Row: Joyce Gudenkauf, Delores Mollohan, Pat Muetting, Carol Widman.

ACTIVITIES

"ARSENIC AND OLD LACE"

Max Huerter, Ross Wichman, Larry Heinen, Gary Haug, A.J. Dultmeier, Judy Wempe, Cyril Huerter, and Carol Widman re-enact the climaxing scene from Act III where the escapee from an insane asylum is finally captured.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY: 1963

The senior class play, under the direction of Terence Kinsella, was staged November 22 at 7:45 P.M. The cast of 14 performed the comedy-thriller, "Arsenic and Old Lace," before a sizable adult crowd.

The production was no easy task. Long before opening night senior crews had begun building props, prompting actors, assuming the duties of stage management, tending to lights, make-up, ticket sales, advertisement, and programs.

Virginia Enneking and Wayne Stuke add the final touches to a poster advertising the play.

Elaine Harper, portrayed by Jane Kramer, is halted in her tracks by Mortimer Brewster, Bruce Adams.

Wayne Stuke, Jane Kramer, and Richard Toby pose in their Russian costumes for the one-act play, "A Marriage Proposal," which they presented at Midway as a part of the K-36 League Play Festival.

LEAGUE PLAY A SUCCESS

Jane Kramer aids in preparing Richard Toby for his part as Father in the dramatic production.

Terence Kinsella, director of the play, enjoys a moment of relaxation between rehearsals.

SENIORS MERIT TO TOPEKA TRIP

The senior class mounts the Capitol's steps to begin their free day merited by winning the OPTIMIST drive.

Carol Widman, Pat Muetting, Joyce Gudenkauf, and Doris Stallbaumer are anxious to proceed on their tour of the Capitol Building.

Galen Hermesch, Jane Kramer, and Elaine Lehmkuhl study a historical guide of Topeka.

Joyce Gudenkauf, A. J. Dultmeier, Richard Lackey, Larry Heinen, Carroll Wichman, and Galen Hermesch descend from their excursion to the dome of the Capitol.

Duane Hammes leisurely enjoys a shoe shine before going to a session in the Senate.

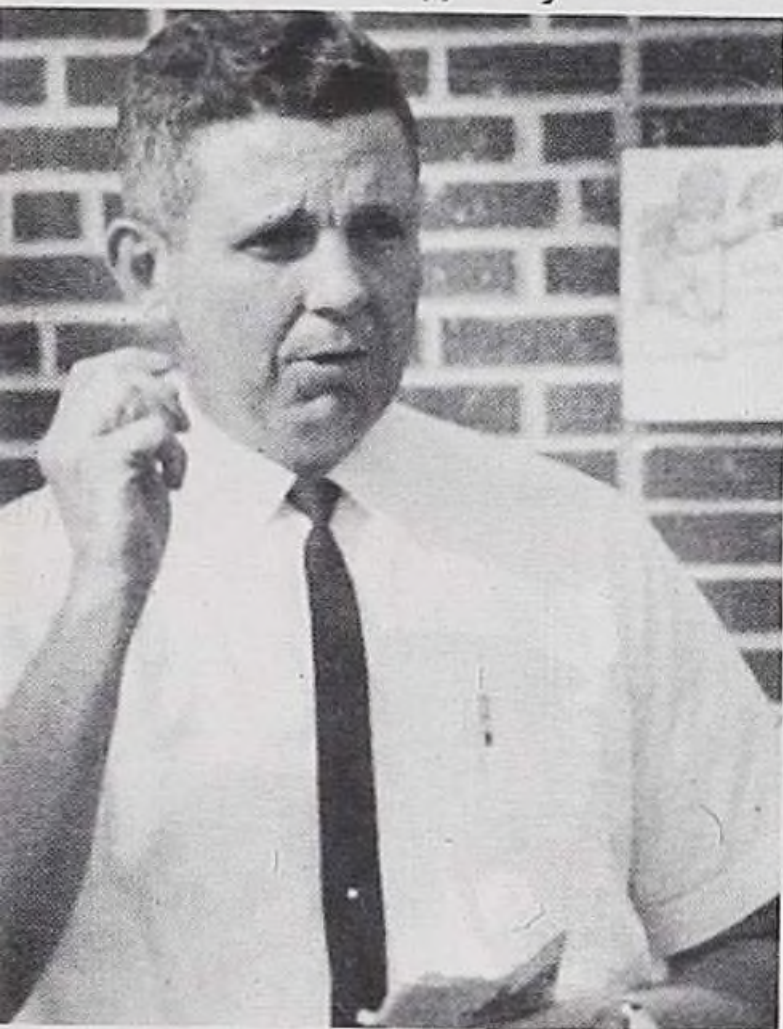

THE SPIRIT OF HOMECOMING

Dick Toby is dismayed by the difficulty he has experienced in trying to pin a mum on Virginia Enneking, a queen candidate. Duane Hammes gladly renders assistance.

Barb Schuetz and A.J. Dultmeier wait their turn to present a comical skit for the afternoon pep rally.

Ken Winterscheidt, the featured speaker for the rally, enlivens school spirit with a quip: "We can and we will."

Gary Haug assumes the role of cheerleader as he leads a group of "non-football players" in some unfamiliar yells.

Mayor Gene Toby presents queen Jane Kramer with a bouquet of red roses after placing the bejeweled crown upon her head.

Alan Osterhaus finds the task of pinning a yellow mum on Bonnie Hylton, senior queen candidate, a "breeze."

"CANADIAN SUNSET"

The grand march ended as these lines formed in front of the stage where the beautiful song "Canadian Sunset" was being played. As is traditional, the front line consists of junior and senior officers and their escorts. The front row includes Stan Koch and Charlene Wilhelm, Bob Gruetze and Sharon Robke, Bruce Adams and Delores Molloyhan, and Jim Fangman and Jane Strohmeier.

JUNIOR - SENIOR PROM MAY 3, 1963

The long awaited night of the 1963 Junior-Senior Prom finally arrived. At the entrance guests stepped over a wooden bridge with sparkling water running beneath it. The entire hall was transformed into a Canadian scene to fit the prom theme "Canadian Sunset."

Guests were fascinated by the brilliant view of the setting sun. To the left was a "Soute Aux Poudrees," decorated to resemble a Canadian home.

Almost immediately one's attention was attracted to the little log house uniquely constructed especially for "Our Lady of the Snows."

A rustic bench surrounded by mountains and a camp fire smouldering nearby was a perfect setting for a pleasant evening. Throughout the wonderland evergreen trees stood gracefully.

Music was furnished by the Al Maust orchestra.

THEME OF 1963 PROM

Juniors Carry Out Theme In Decorations

The log fireplace shown here was the ingenuity of Joyce Gudenkauf and her co-workers Alan Osterhaus, and Doris Stallbaumer.

Pat Mueting and Judy Wempe are engaged in the task of draping twirled crepe paper around the refreshment cove.

Jane Kramer, assisted by dexterous hand of Charlie Rethman, staples a cardboard log onto the grotto of Our Lady of the Snows.

Max Huerter, Bruce Adams, and Duane Hammes are busied with the finer details in the construction of the rustic bridge which served as an entrance way for everyone attending the prom.

Larry Heinen holds a racoon pelt which was used on the powder room floor to add an extra touch to the furnishing.

YOUNG SCIENTISTS MAKE

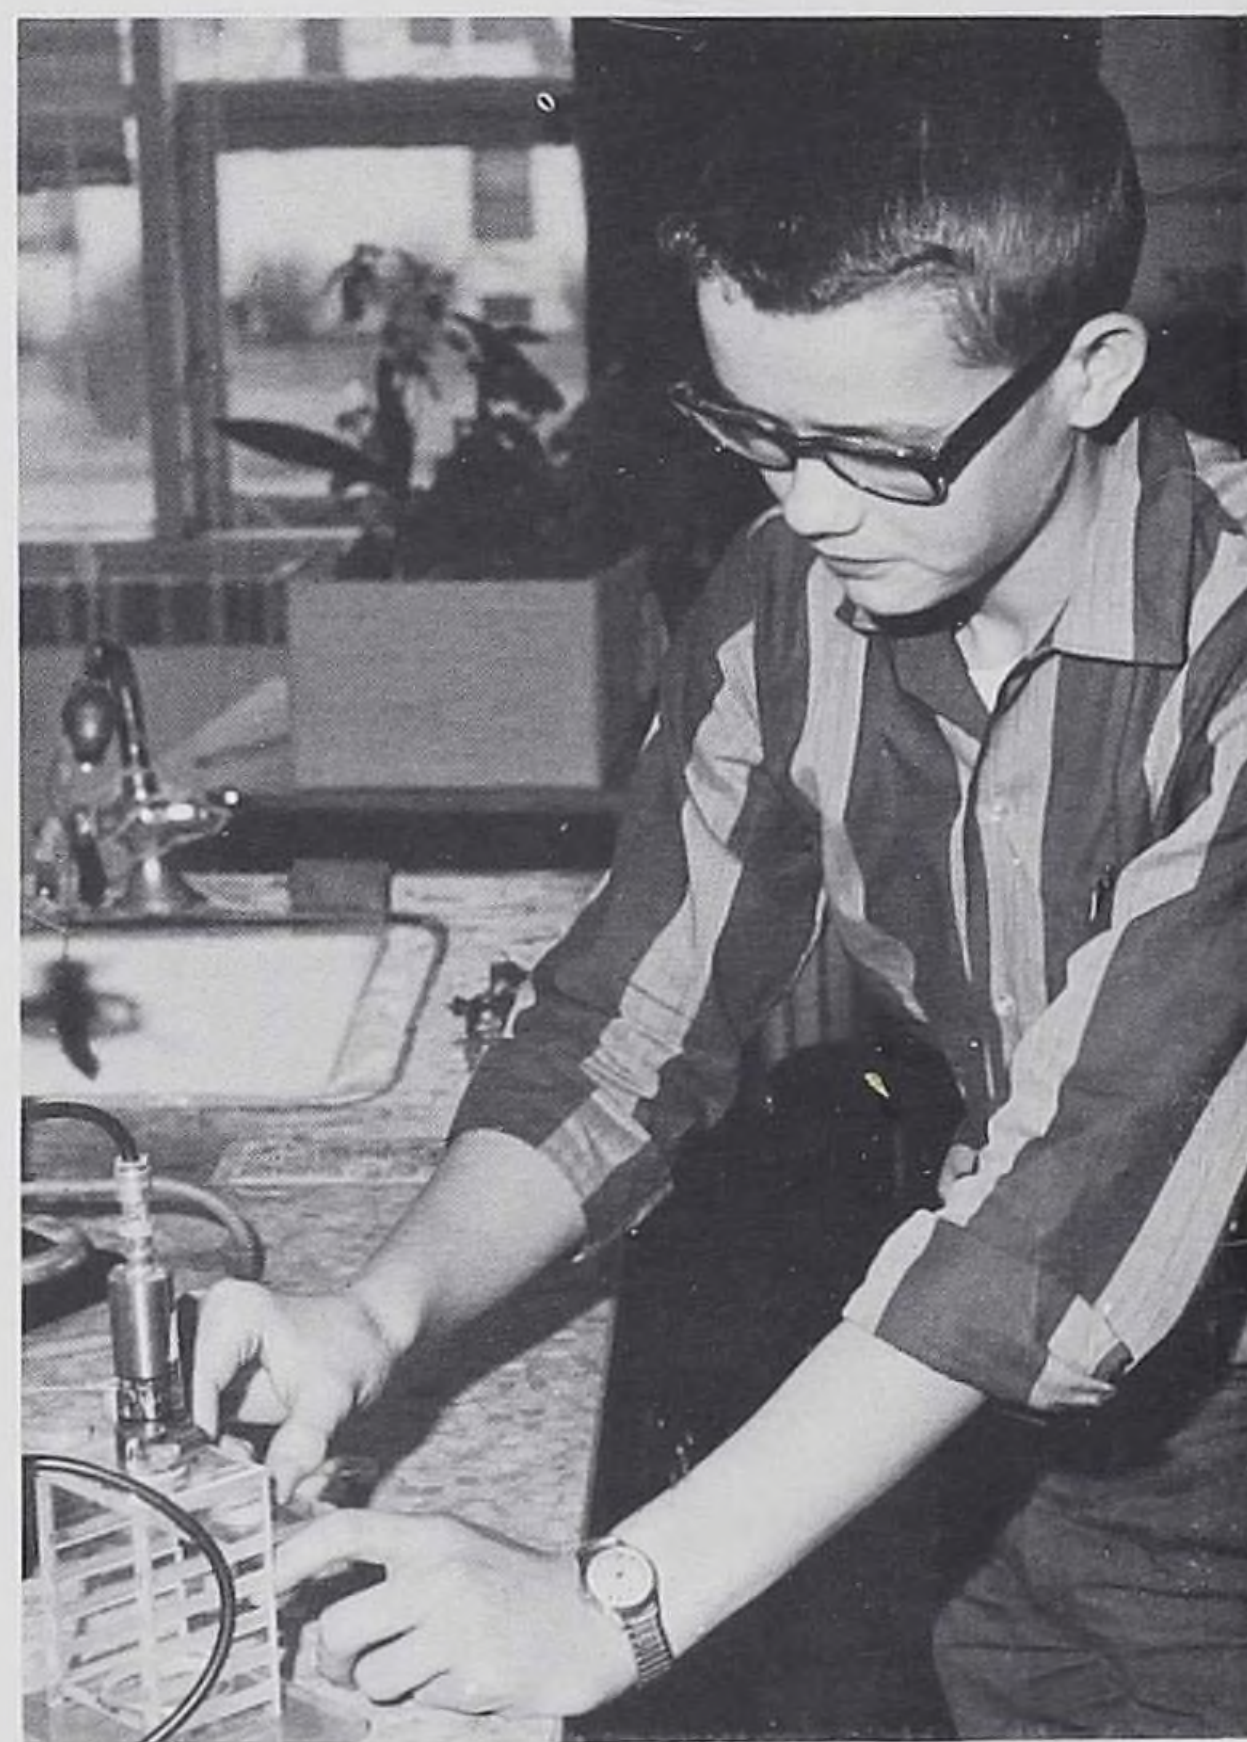

Mary Howser, sophomore, aerates pea plants as part of her experiment for the Junior Academy of Science.

Bruce Adams, senior, uses the GM counter to measure the amount of radiation being absorbed by his pea plants at varying age differences.

Delores Mollohan, senior radiation biology student, times the amount of radiation given to the enzyme as one objective of her science project.

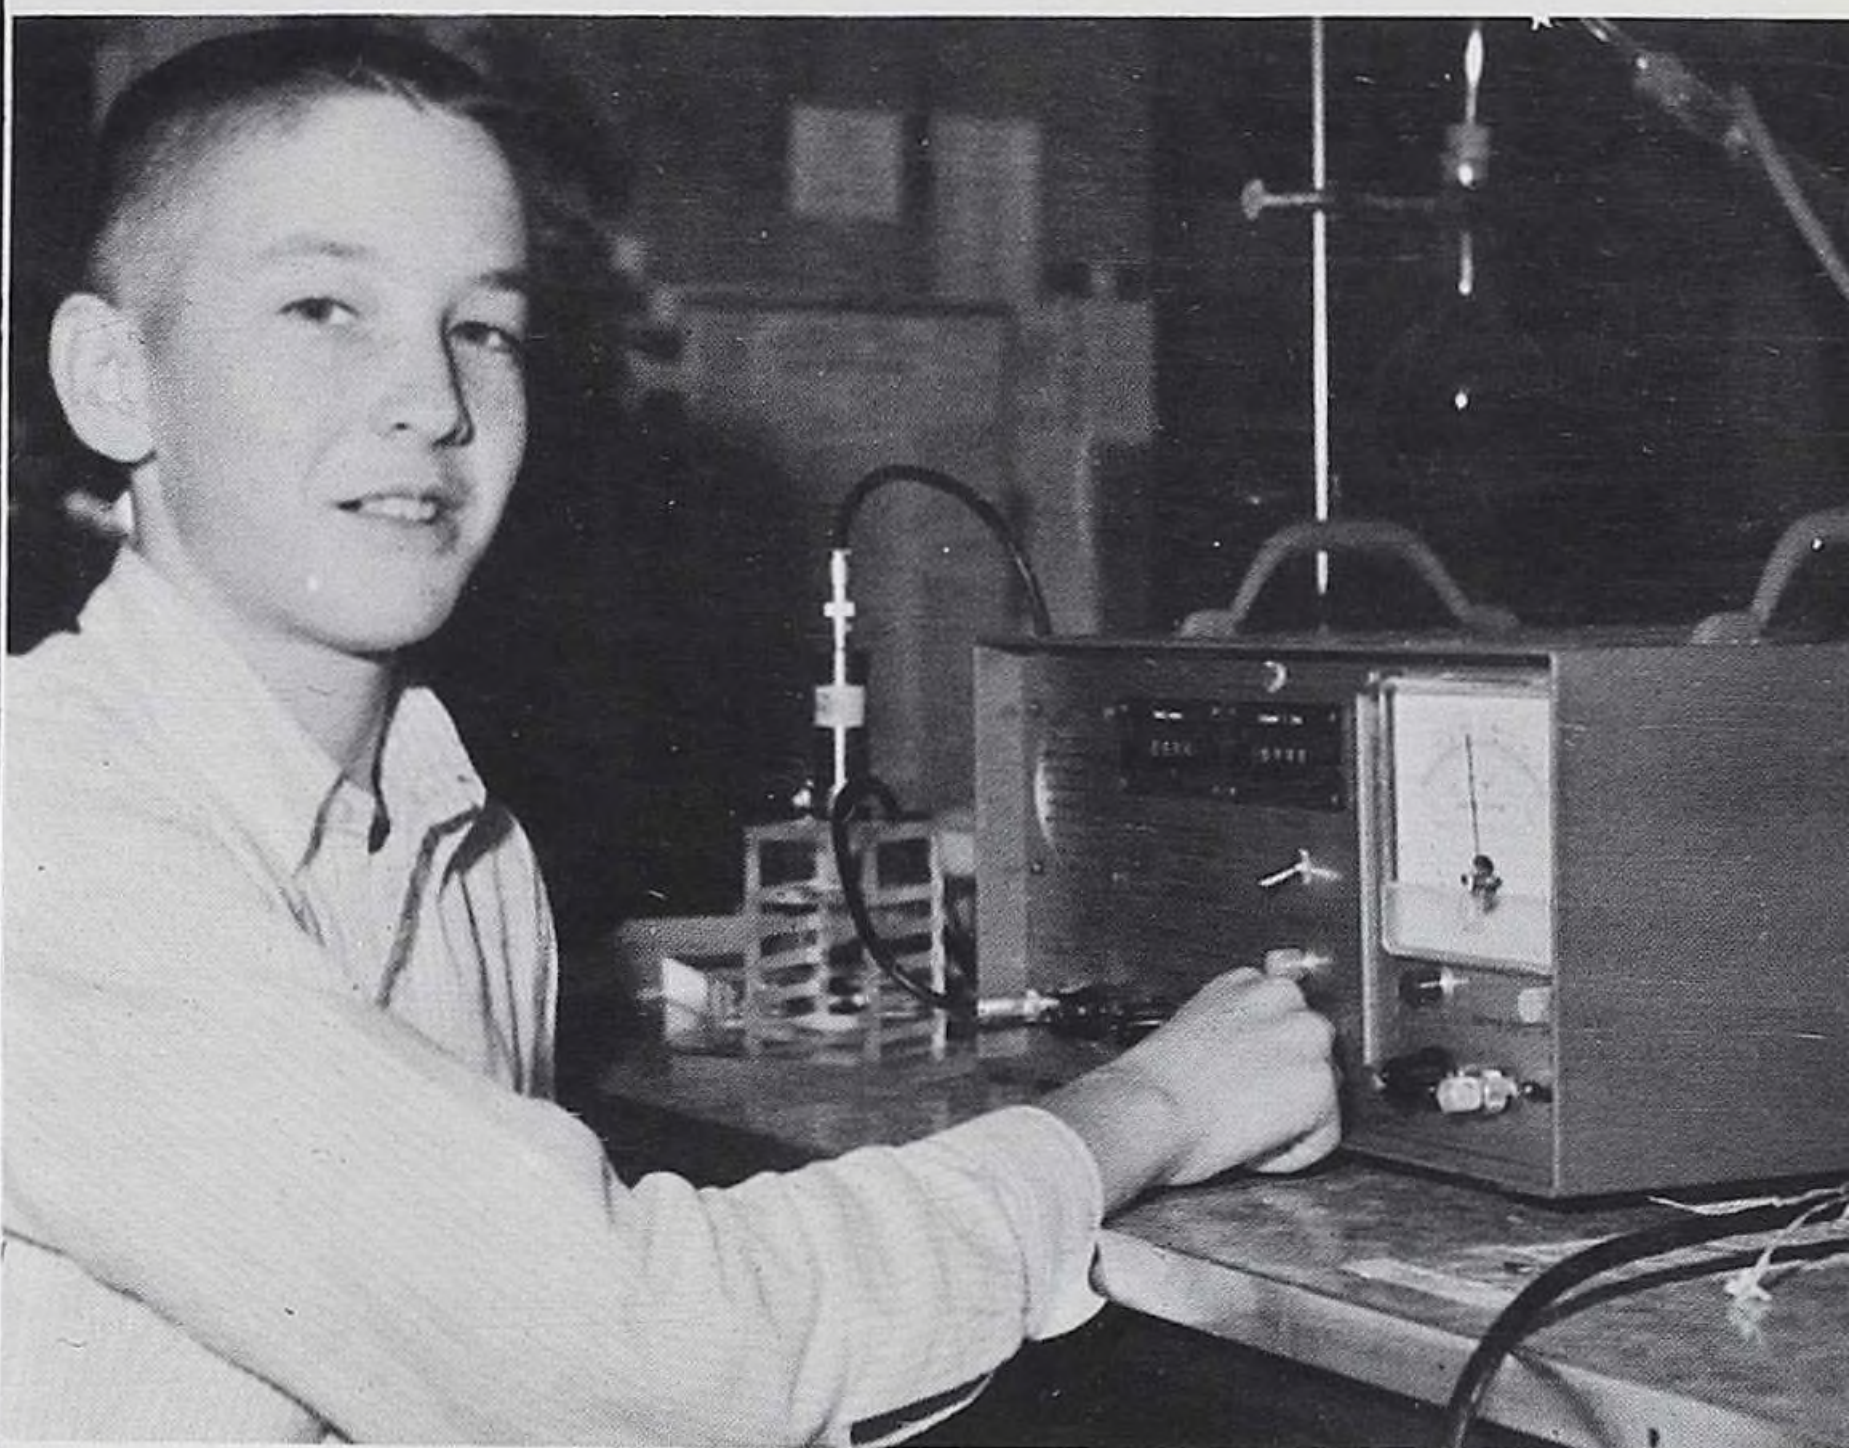

The GM counter aids Keith Gockel, freshman, in determining the radiation count of Strontium-90 on samples of powdered milk.

SOME NEW DISCOVERIES

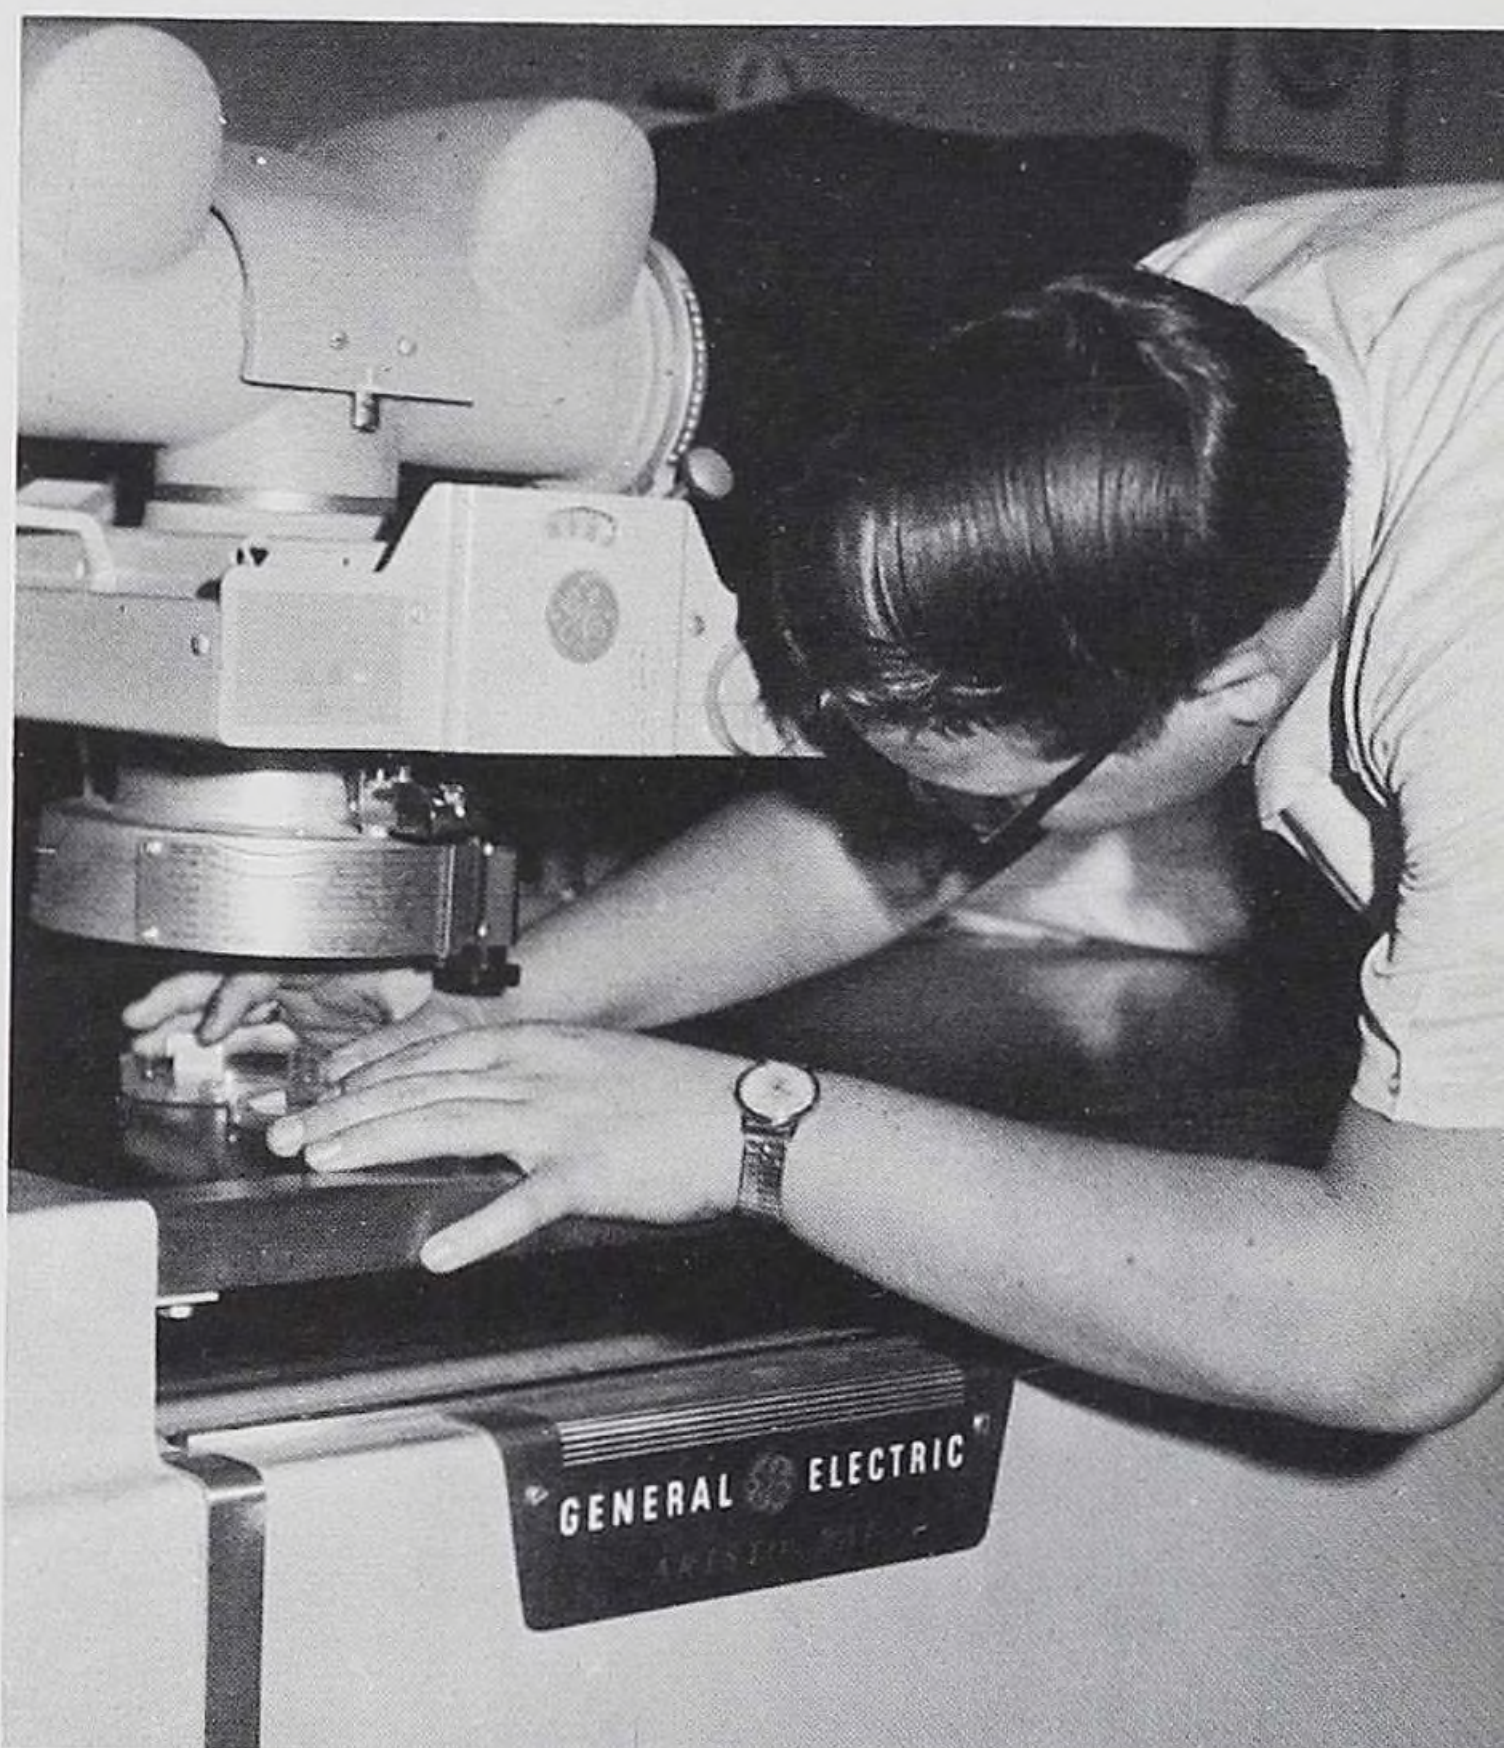

Max Huerter, senior, checks the effects of IAA on root development as a part of his science project.

John Selk, freshman, uses the GM counter in conducting an investigation of nuclear statistics.

Wayne Stuke, senior, prepares to take a count of yeast cells for his report for the Kansas Junior Academy.

Ross Wichman, senior, prepares to give his oat seeds a dose of X-ray radiation so its effect on the oats' germination can be seen.

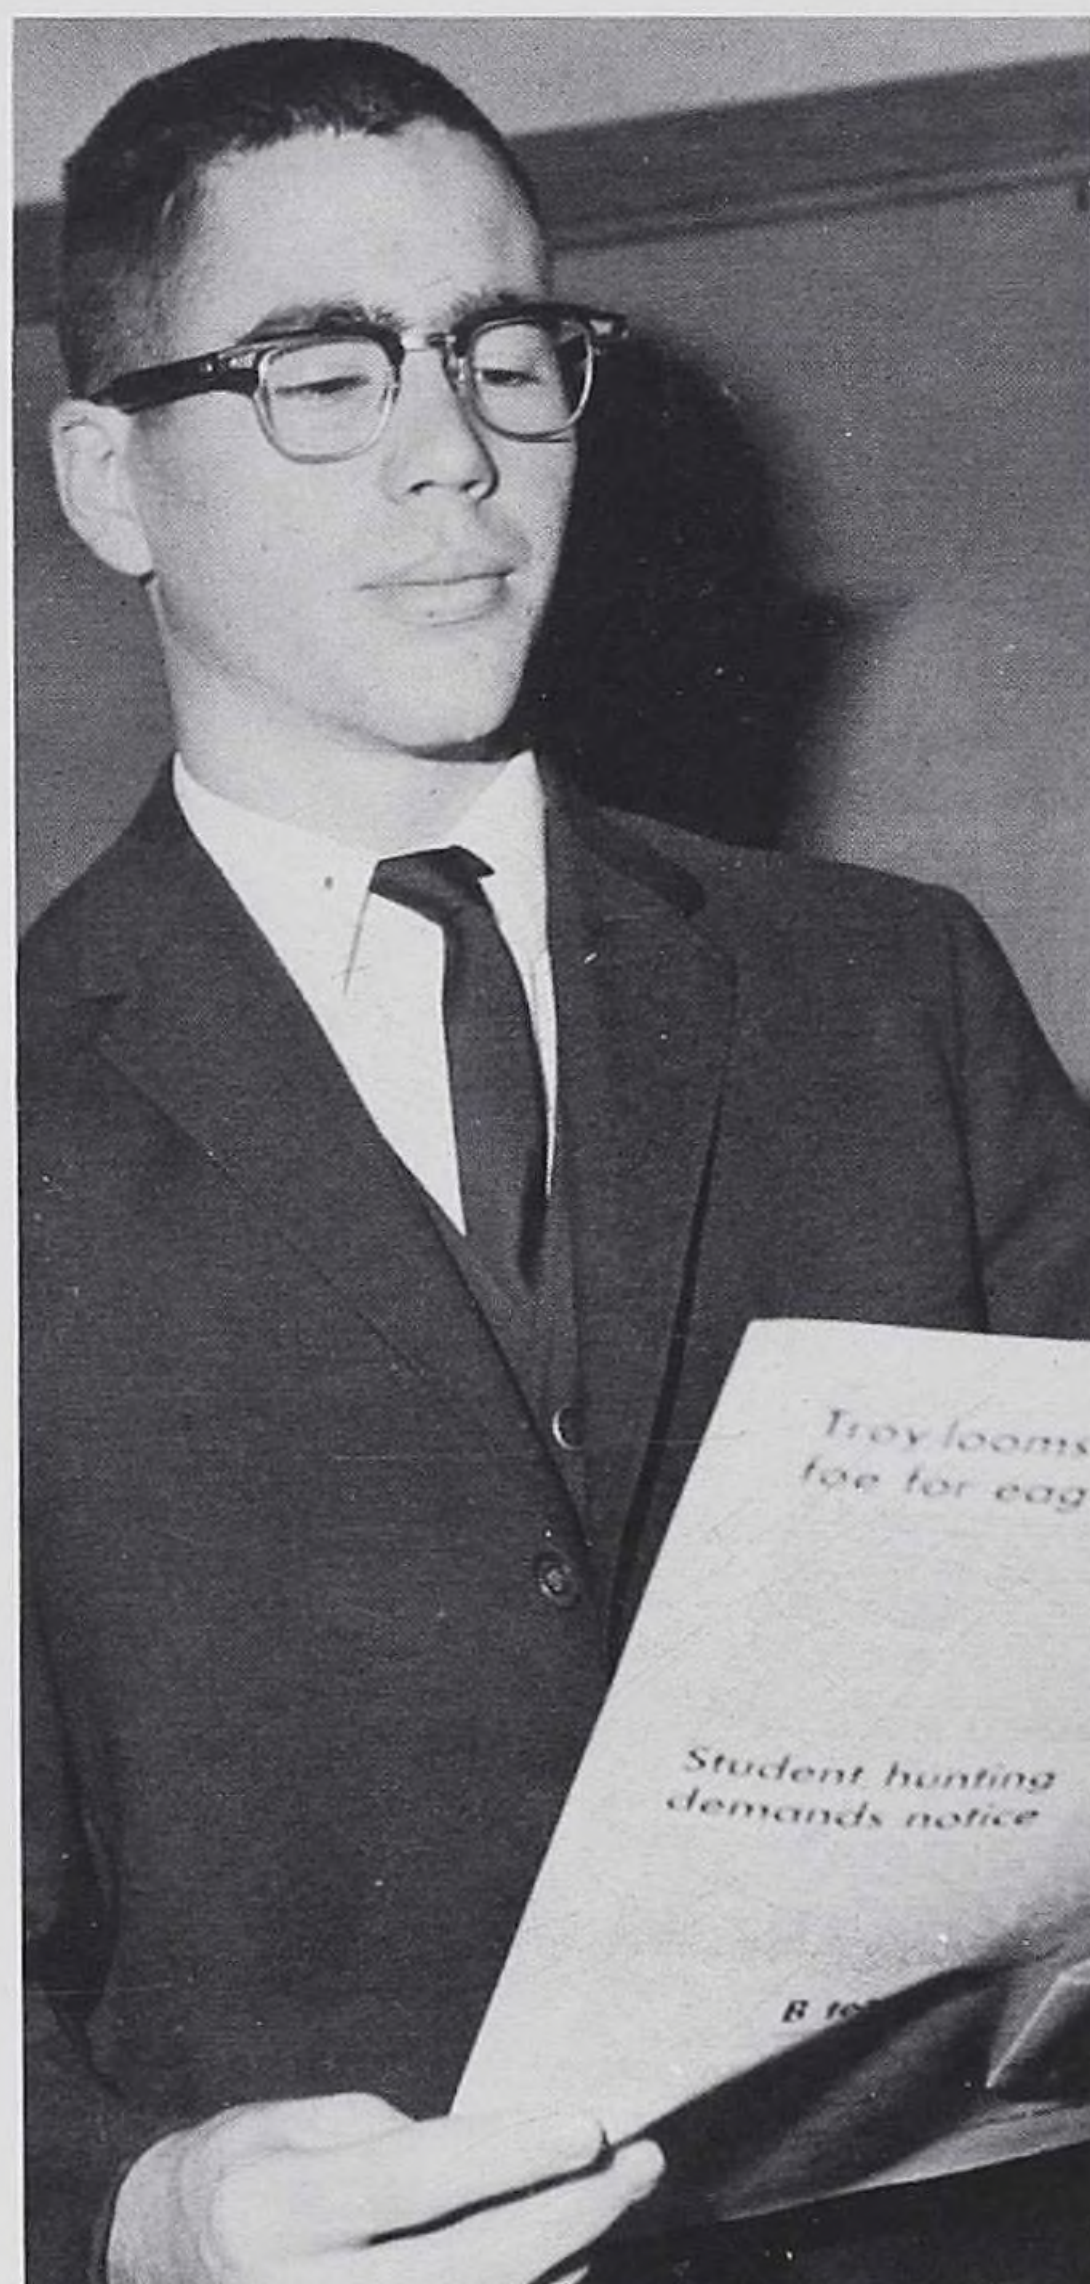

A dozen members form the nucleus of the reporting staff for the school newspaper, "The Optimist." Those seated include Maxine Holthaus, Dan Olberding, Delores Mollohan, Helen Kramer, and Alan Waller. Standing in the background are: Bev Gudenkauf, Ardys Fangman, Jon Buser, Jim Haug, Mary Howser, Carol Widman, and Judy Graney.

BRUCE ADAMS, OPTIMIST Sports Editor and TROJAN Sports Assistant.

ROSS WICHMAN, OPTIMIST Contributing Editor.

GARY HAUG, OPTIMIST Editor 1963-64 and Staff Photographer.

MOMENTS FROM A STUDENT'S WHIRL

Rev. Donald Redmond, O. S. B., religion and Latin instructor, and an asset to the student's spiritual life, sings the epistle at daily Mass for the student body.

"To pray, to work, to play!" Each of these plays an important role in the life of a student at Saints Peter and Paul. We have attempted to convey these activities in the hope that you can share these passing moments with us.

Research is vital to the student as Joyce Gudenkauf, A. J. Dultmeier, Delores Mollohan, Virginia Enneking, and Joyce Haverkamp found when preparing for a debate in speech class.

"Sing Along With Mitch" is Charley Rethman's motto as he instructs Elaine Lehmkuhl to turn the pages faster.

"O-64," calls Allan Waller and "Dink" Olberding gives the numbers another swirl until some lucky person shouts "Bingo" at the Fun Fest.

SENIORS VICTORIOUS IN CONTEST

Senior panelists, Joyce Gudenkauf, Carol Widman, Delores Mollohan, Gary Haug, and Ross Wichman outwitted the junior "whiz kids" in the annual Categories Contest by scoring 42 points to their 25.

Marianne Lumpe, Joe Deters, Paul Boeding, Diane Wempe, Susan Widman, junior panelists, intelligently answered numerous questions to keep scoring.

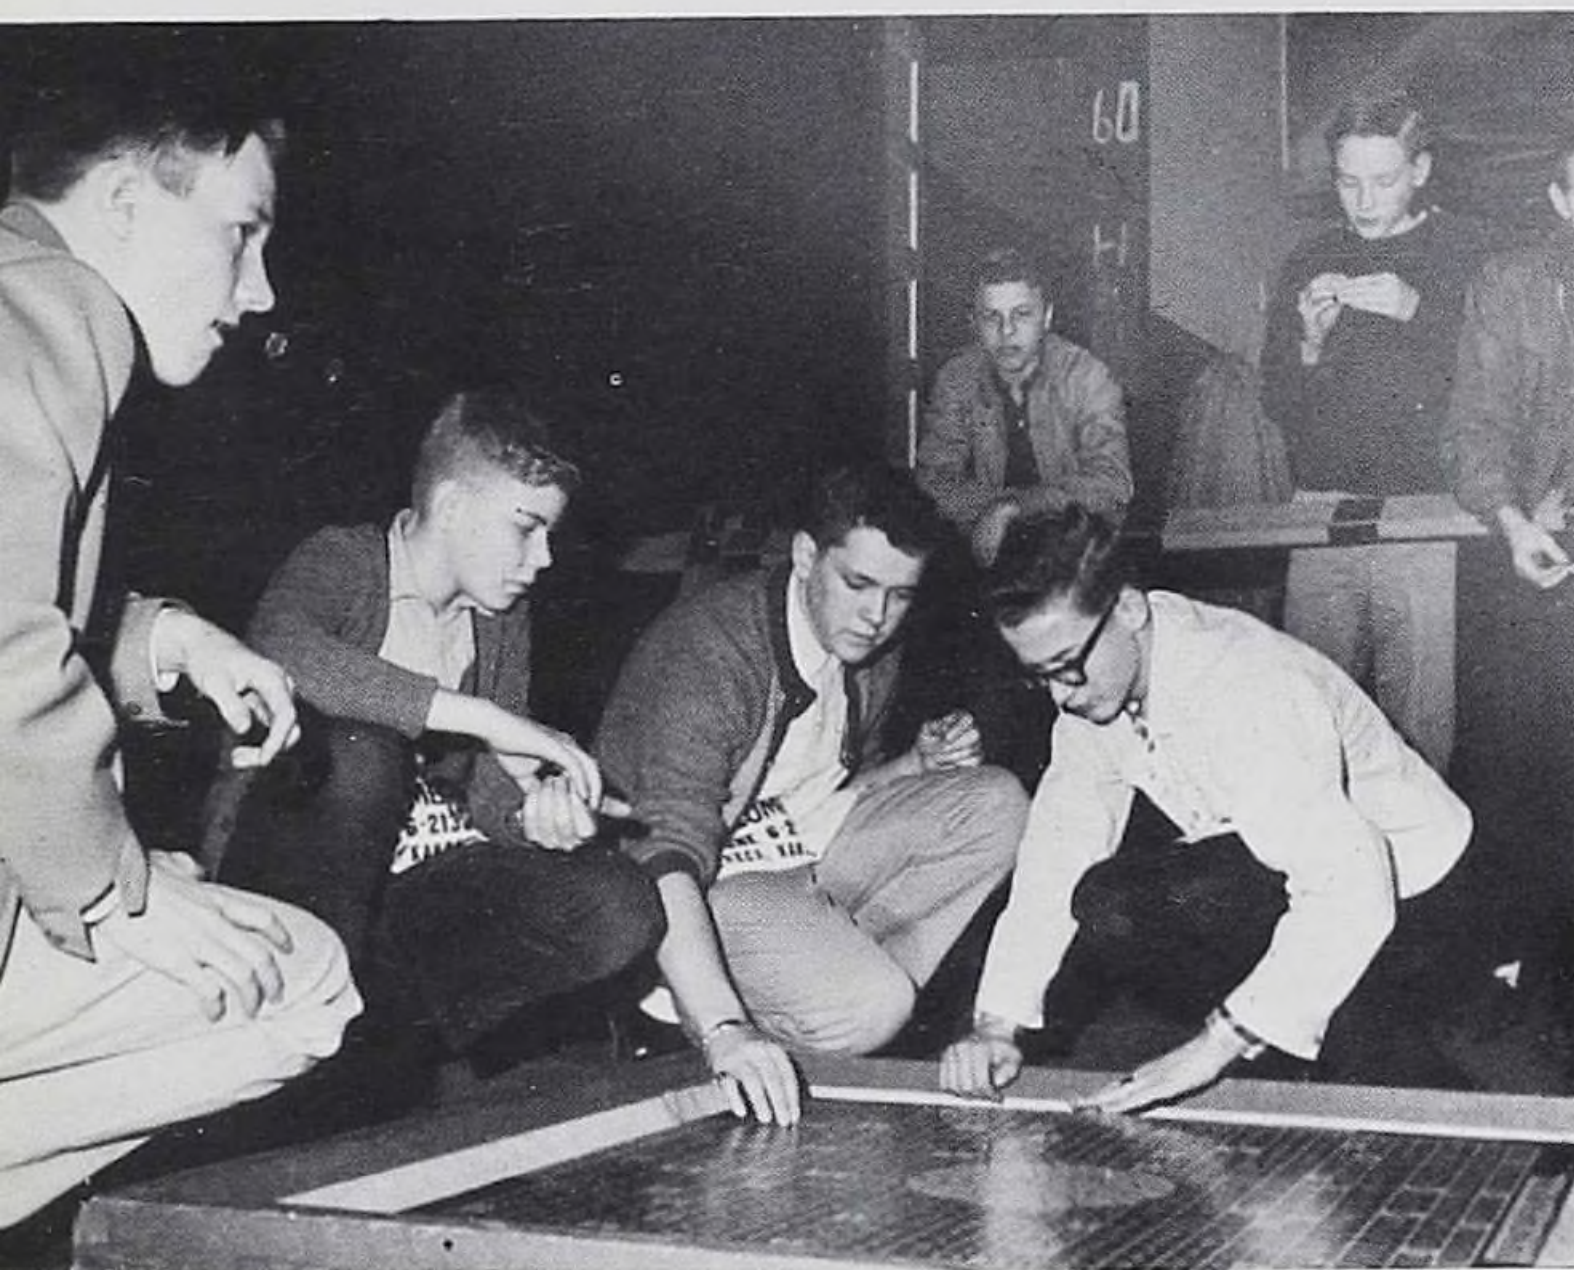

GAY SPIRITS PREVAIL AT FUN FEST

"Let's go fishing," says Cheryl Holthaus, freshman, as she reels out a toy for the anxious youngsters.

"Stick 'em up!" says Jeff Buser, freshman marshal, as he ushers another convict into the Fun Fest Jail.

Clarence Lechner, Bill Toby, Terry Osterhaus, and Larry Eisenbarth get the board ready for another game of penny pitch.

Paul Kohake quickly learned the art of efficient pop pouring as crowds thronged to the refreshment stand.

"How's this for style," chuckles Steve Adams while Betty Murphy watches critically and Elmer Lackey tries a better style.

ATHLETICS

TRO-JAN PEP SQUAD

President of the Pep Club Janice Haverkamp discusses some of the responsibilities of the office with her cabinet consisting of Vice-president Helen Mueting and Secretary-treasurer Barb Schuetz.

LOYAL TROJANETTES

HOMECOMING 1963

The highlight of the 1963 Homecoming was the crowning of Miss Jane Kramer, senior, as Homecoming Queen. She was chosen for the honor from among three senior candidates. Her crowning took place at the half-time ceremonies of the Trojan football game with Sacred Heart of Falls City on November 25.

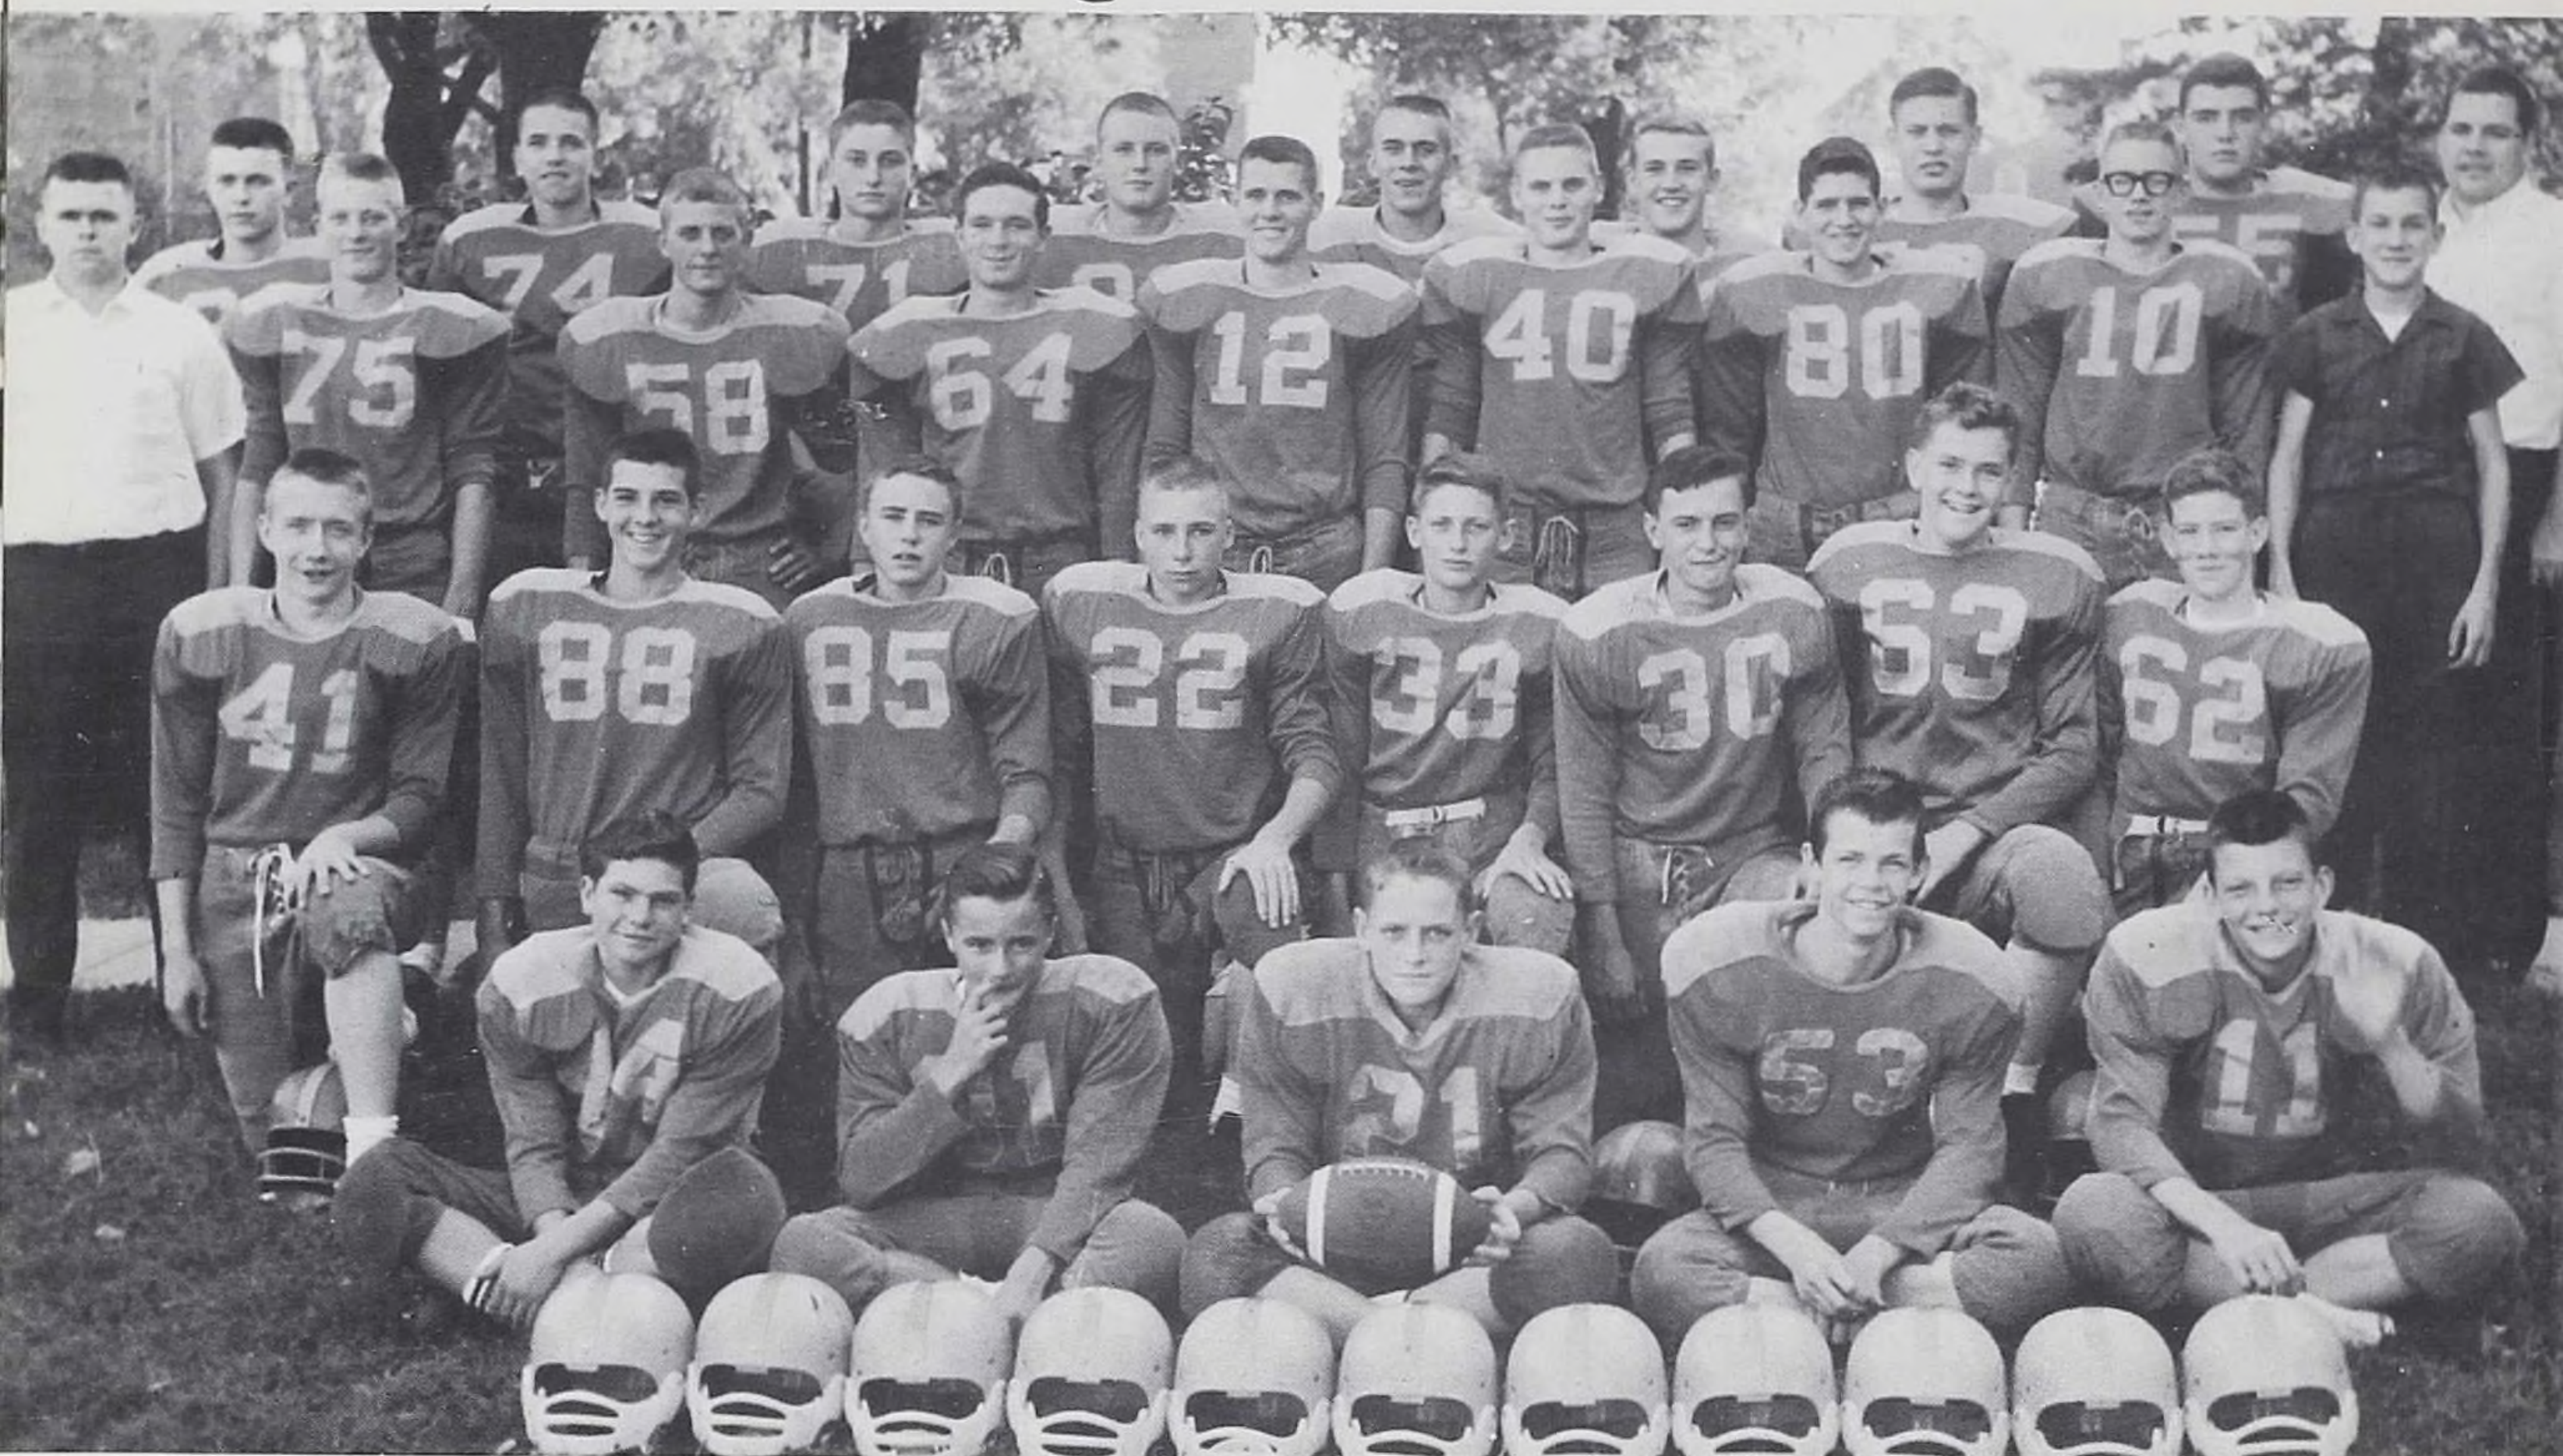

Queen Jane reigned over all athletic contests for the remainder of the season.

SON IN A TOUGH LEAGUE

TROJAN TRIUMPHS AND FAILURES: 1963

The traditional first game of the season with the Sabetha Bluejays rolled around all too quickly for the Trojans. The Bluejays were surprisingly strong both defensively and offensively. This unfortunately, proved largely to be the case with most of the other teams the Trojans met during the year. Various factors, many unanticipated, proved to be the downfall of the Trojans.

There were several bright spots in the football year. Those were the victories over the Falls City and Midway teams. The K-36 League teams were, on a whole, much stronger and experienced teams. They proved to be stiff competition. But this was to be expected since the K-36 League is "one of the two or three toughest class B leagues in Kansas," to quote Coach John Joyce.

Dick Toby and Duane Hammes help an injured teammate, Larry Heinen, off the field as Coach Moriarty returns from the scene of the mishap.

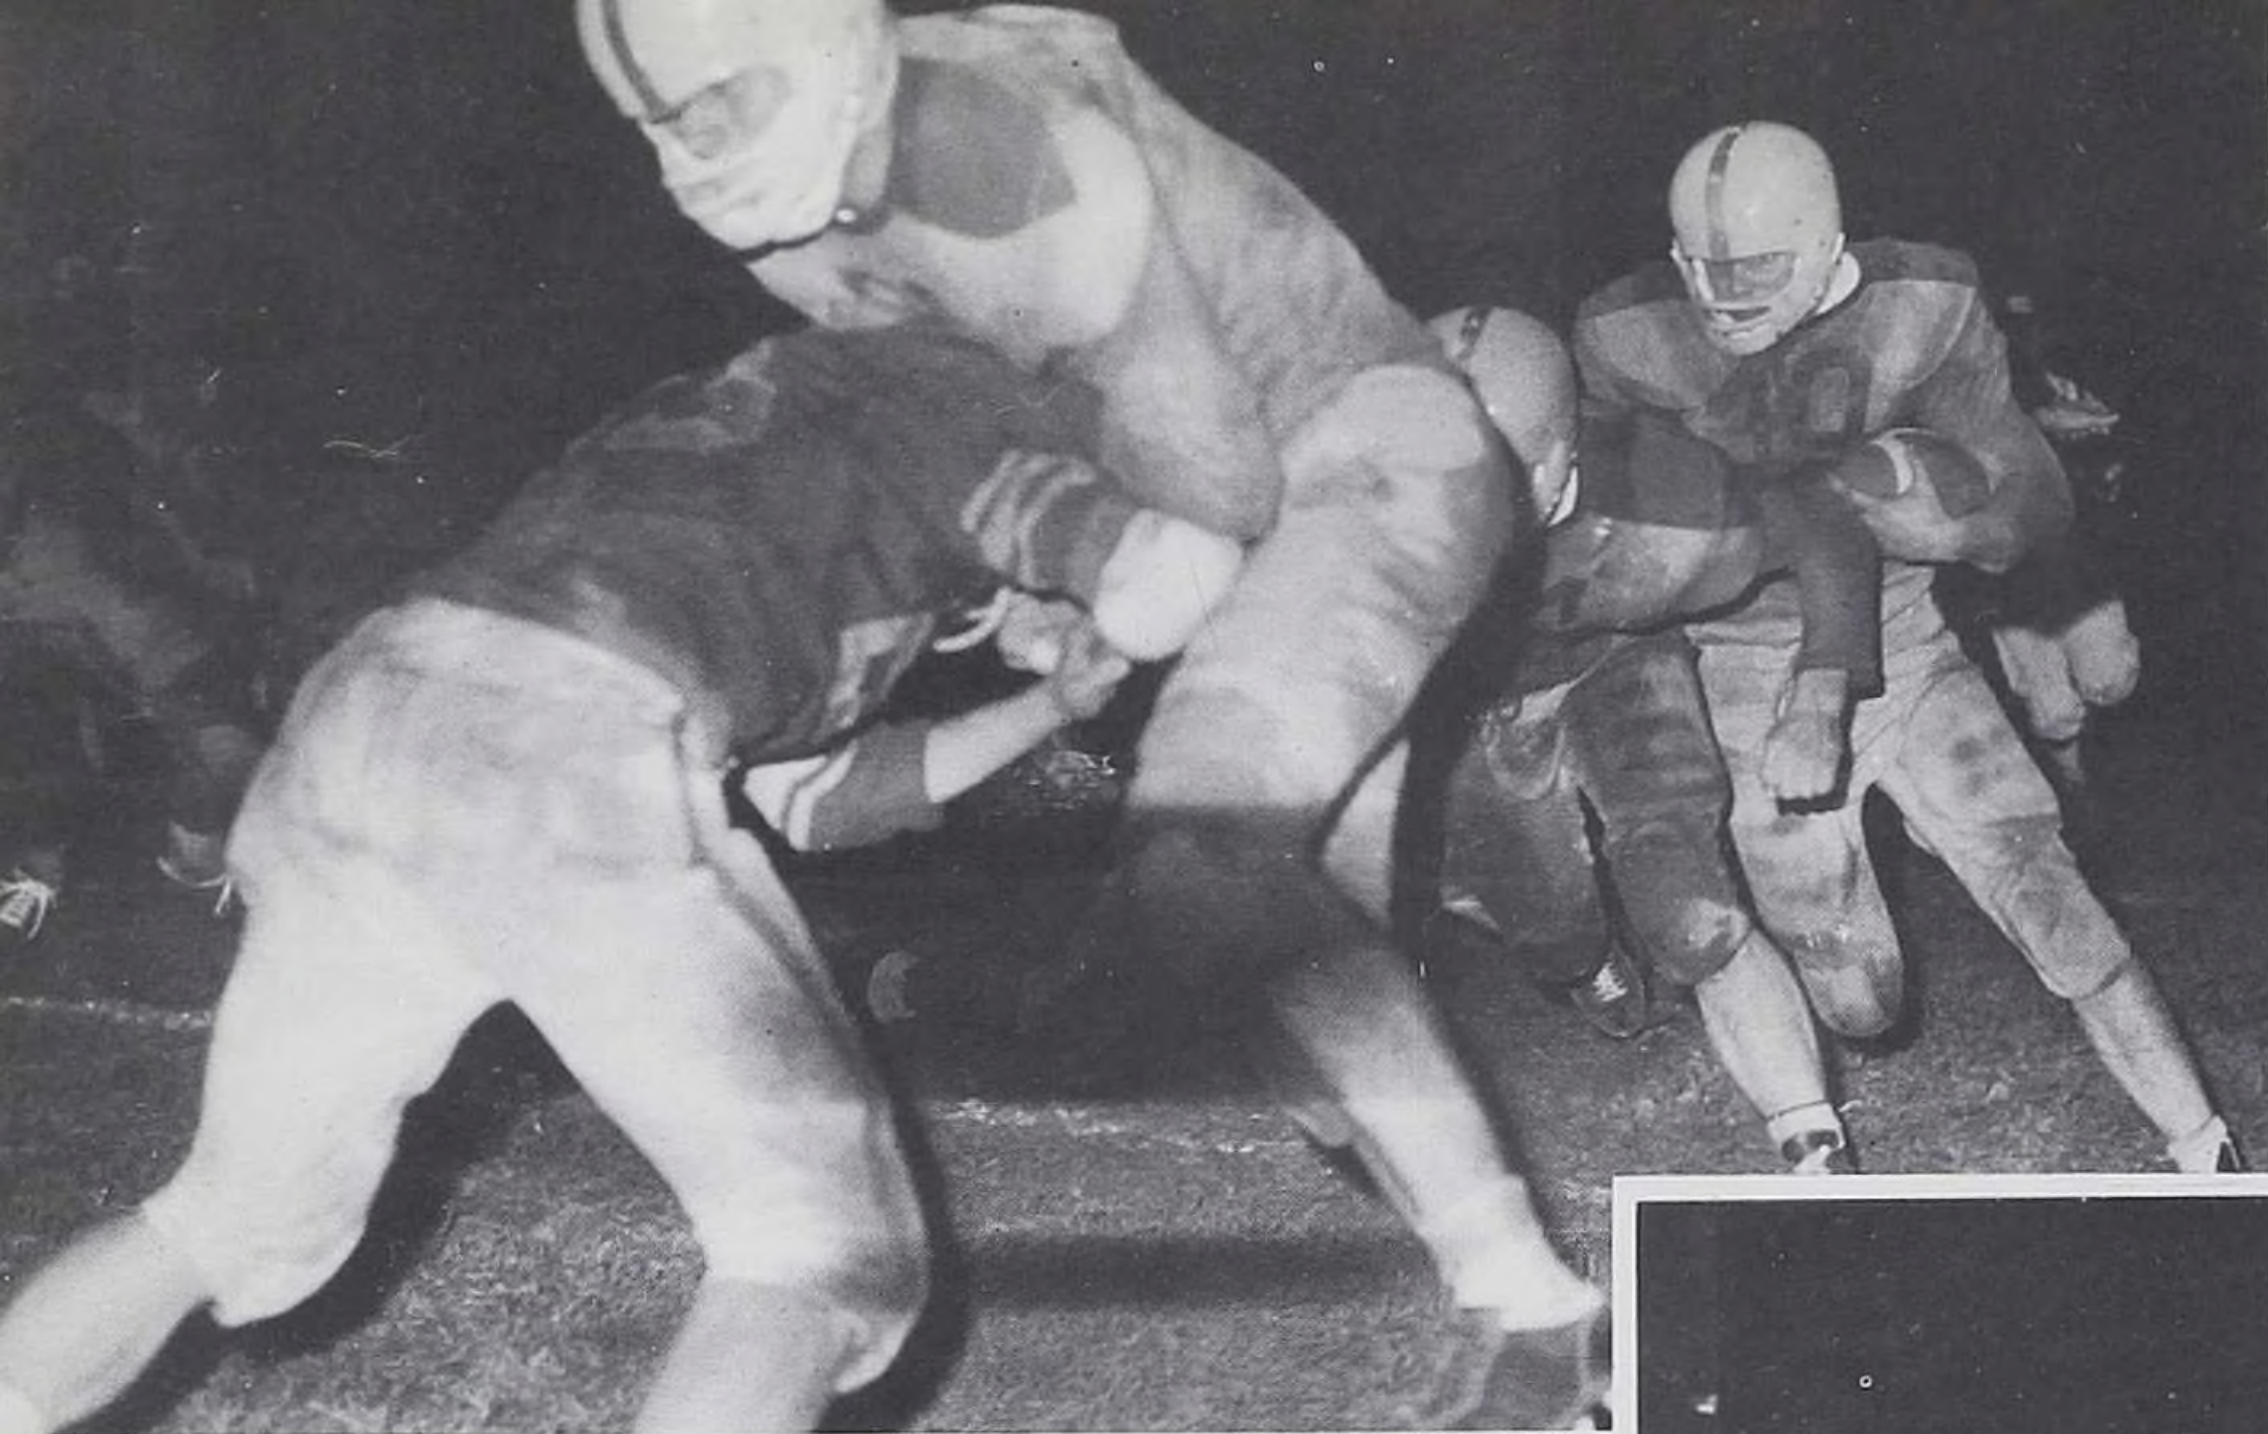

Duane Hammes wipes the sweat off his face as Coach Joyce points out to him a number of Trojan blunders at a game in which the opposing team took first honors.

Leon Osterhaus, Andy Gerber, Wayne Stuke, A.J. Dultmeier, Max Huerter, Cyril Huerter, Larry Heinen, Dick Lackey, and Daryl Gruneison are engaged in some original yells. They cheer at a B-team game.

IN FOOT THE THAT COUNTS

Trojan linemen are staging an effective attempt to open a hole for senior back Charlie Rethman.

Charlie Rethman is tripped in his path as he attempts a gain on a well-staged play.

BALL IT'S ACTION

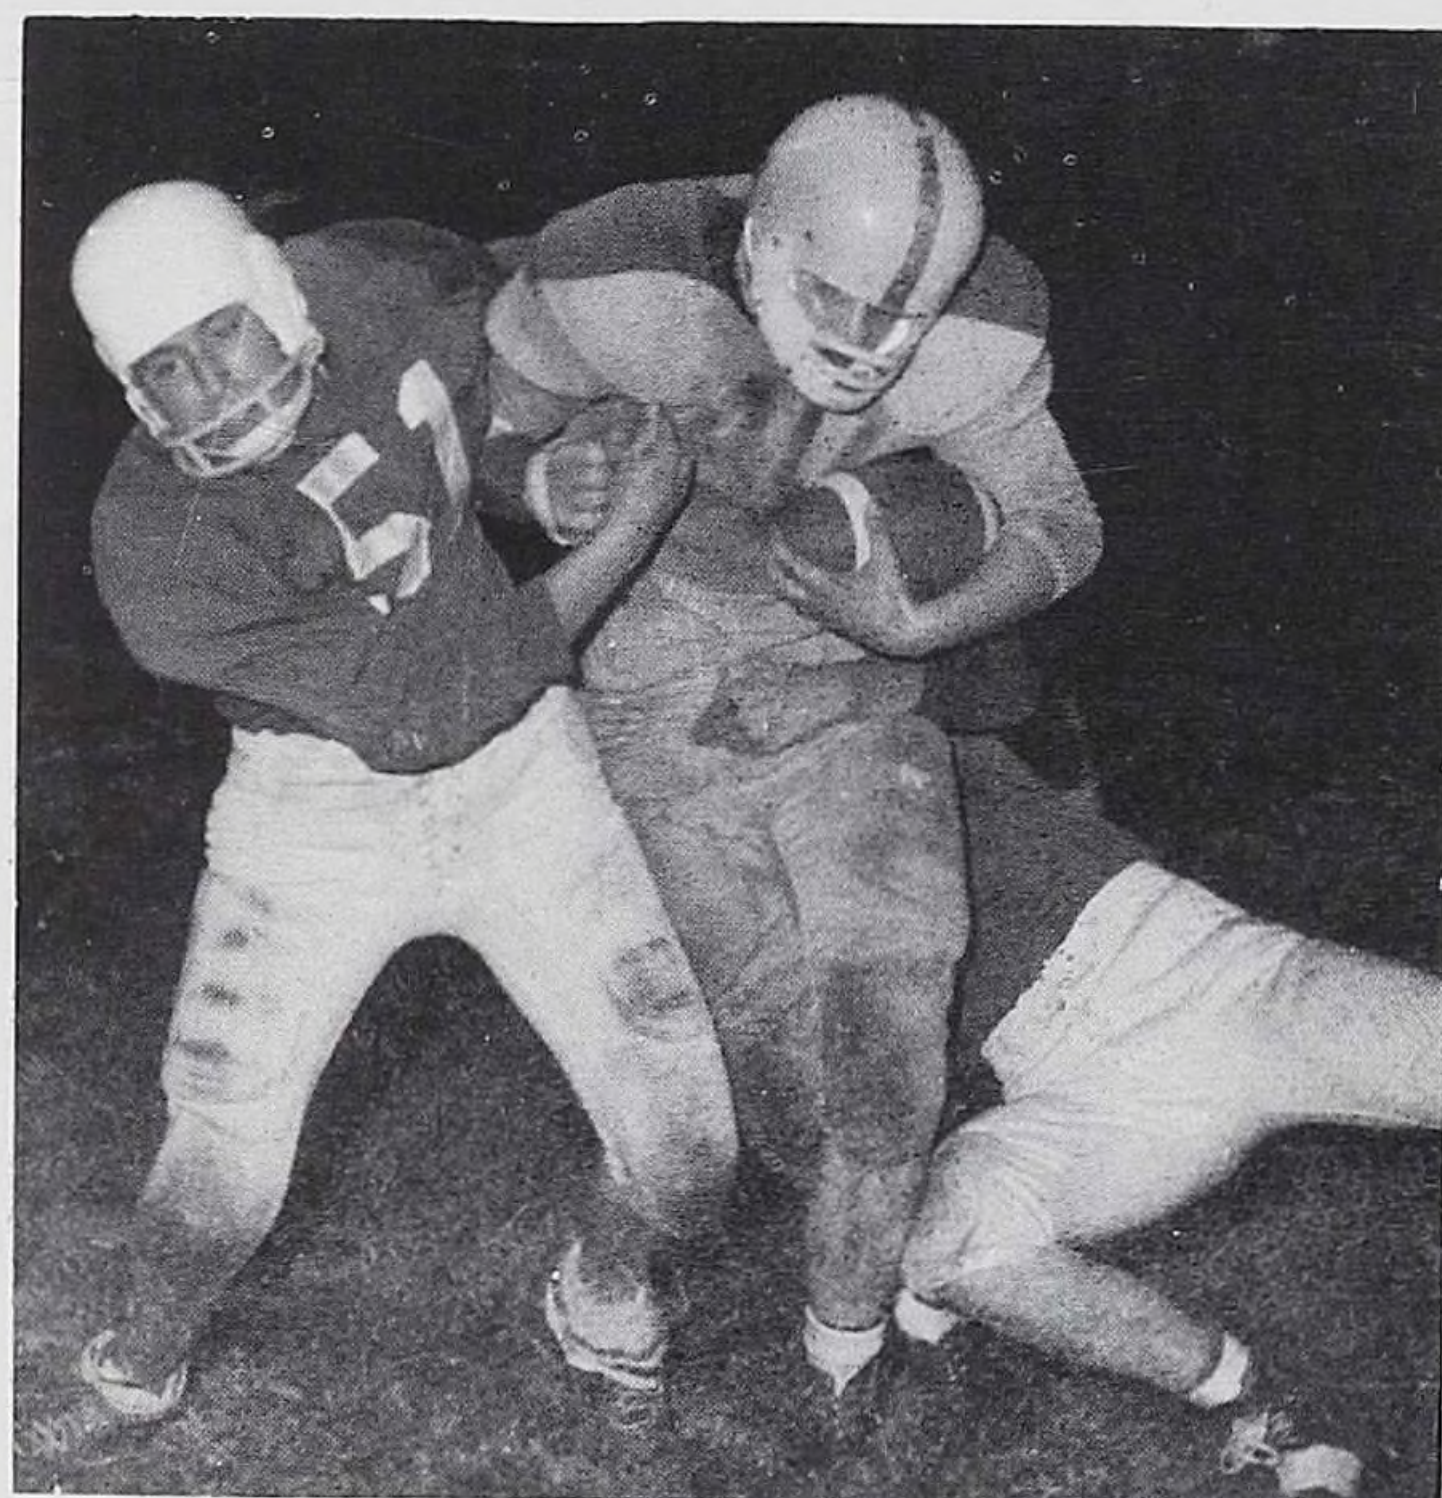

Dick Toby, senior quarterback, throws a block against an unidentified Sacred Heart halfback while Charlie Rethman tries for an end sweep.

Steve Stuke, Trojan halfback, evades a Centralia tackler in a B-team encounter.

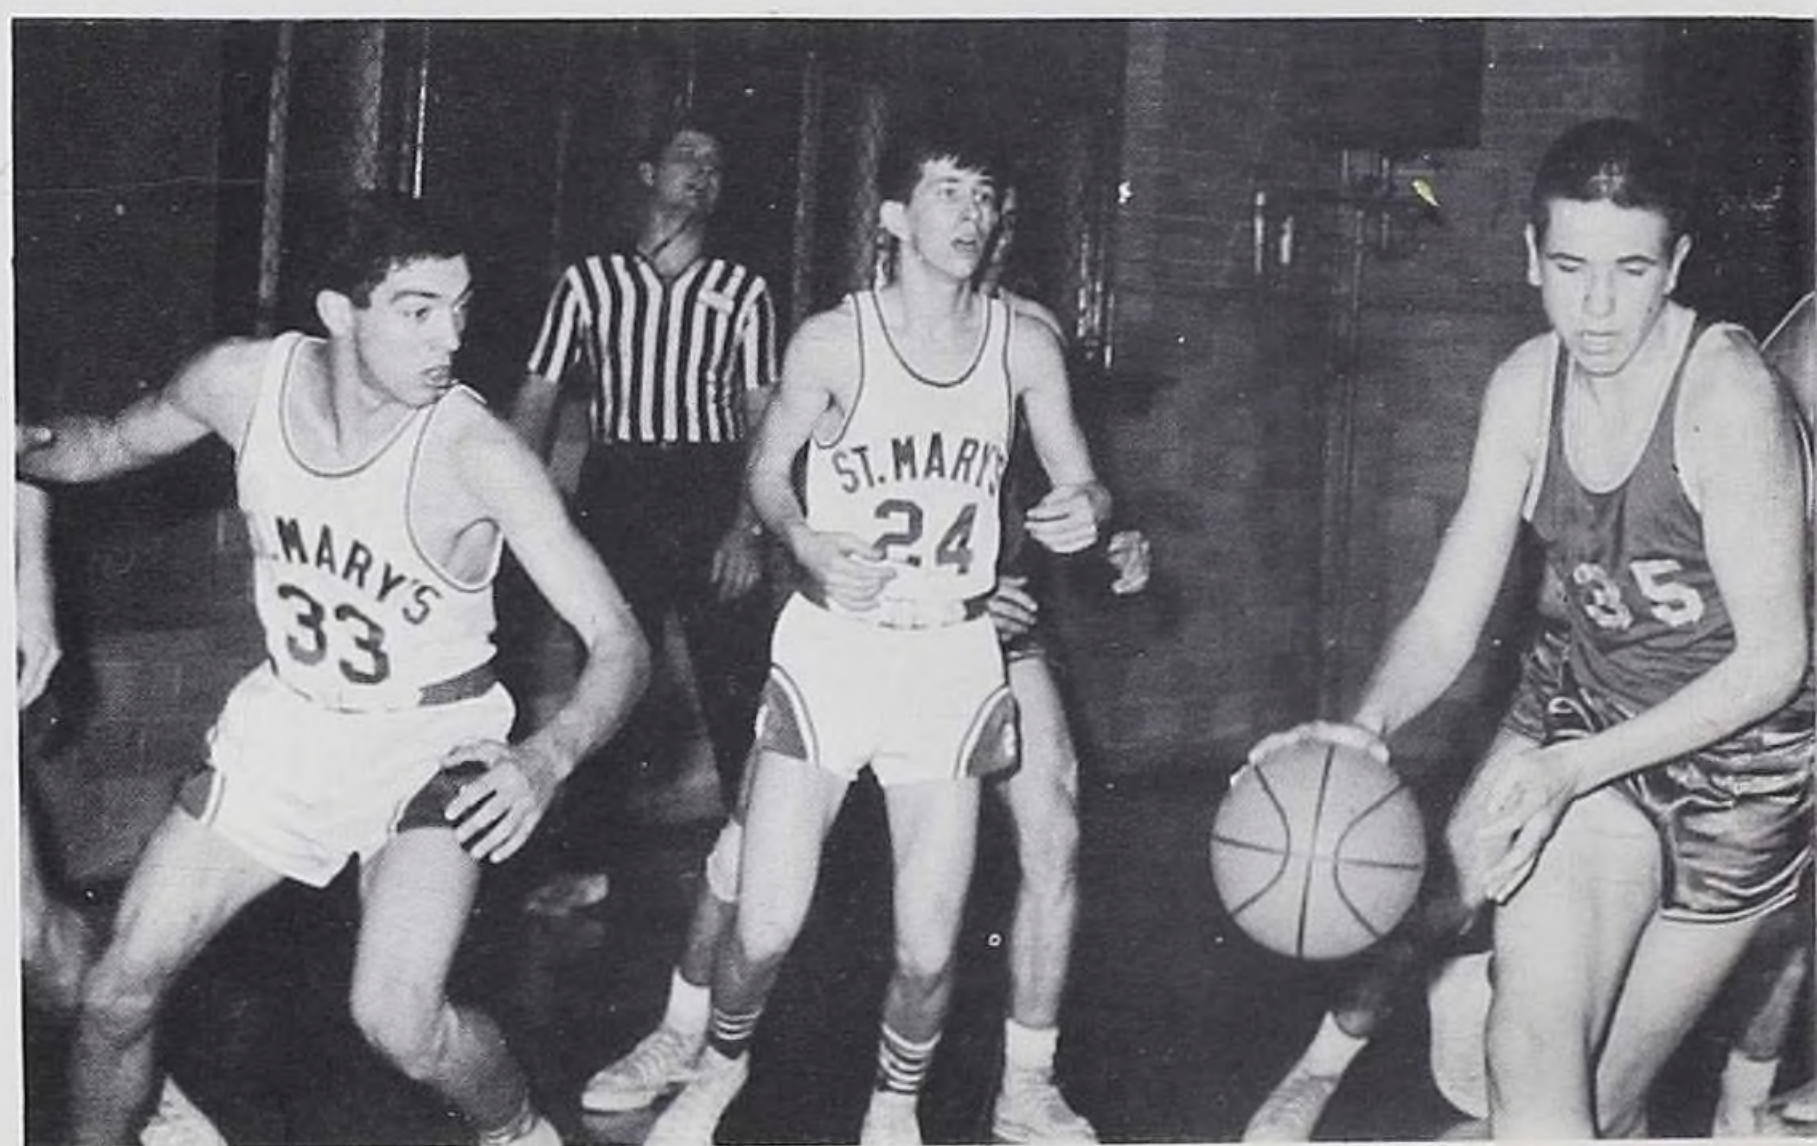

Andy Gerber, a stalwart Trojan guard, throws an effective block against an unidentified Sacred Heart line-backer as Dick Toby is foiled in his efforts.

Charlie Rethman refuses to be stopped by two Falls City tacklers.

Allan Waller maneuvers for two points against the St. Mary's Blue Jays.

THE WAY THE BALL BOUNCED

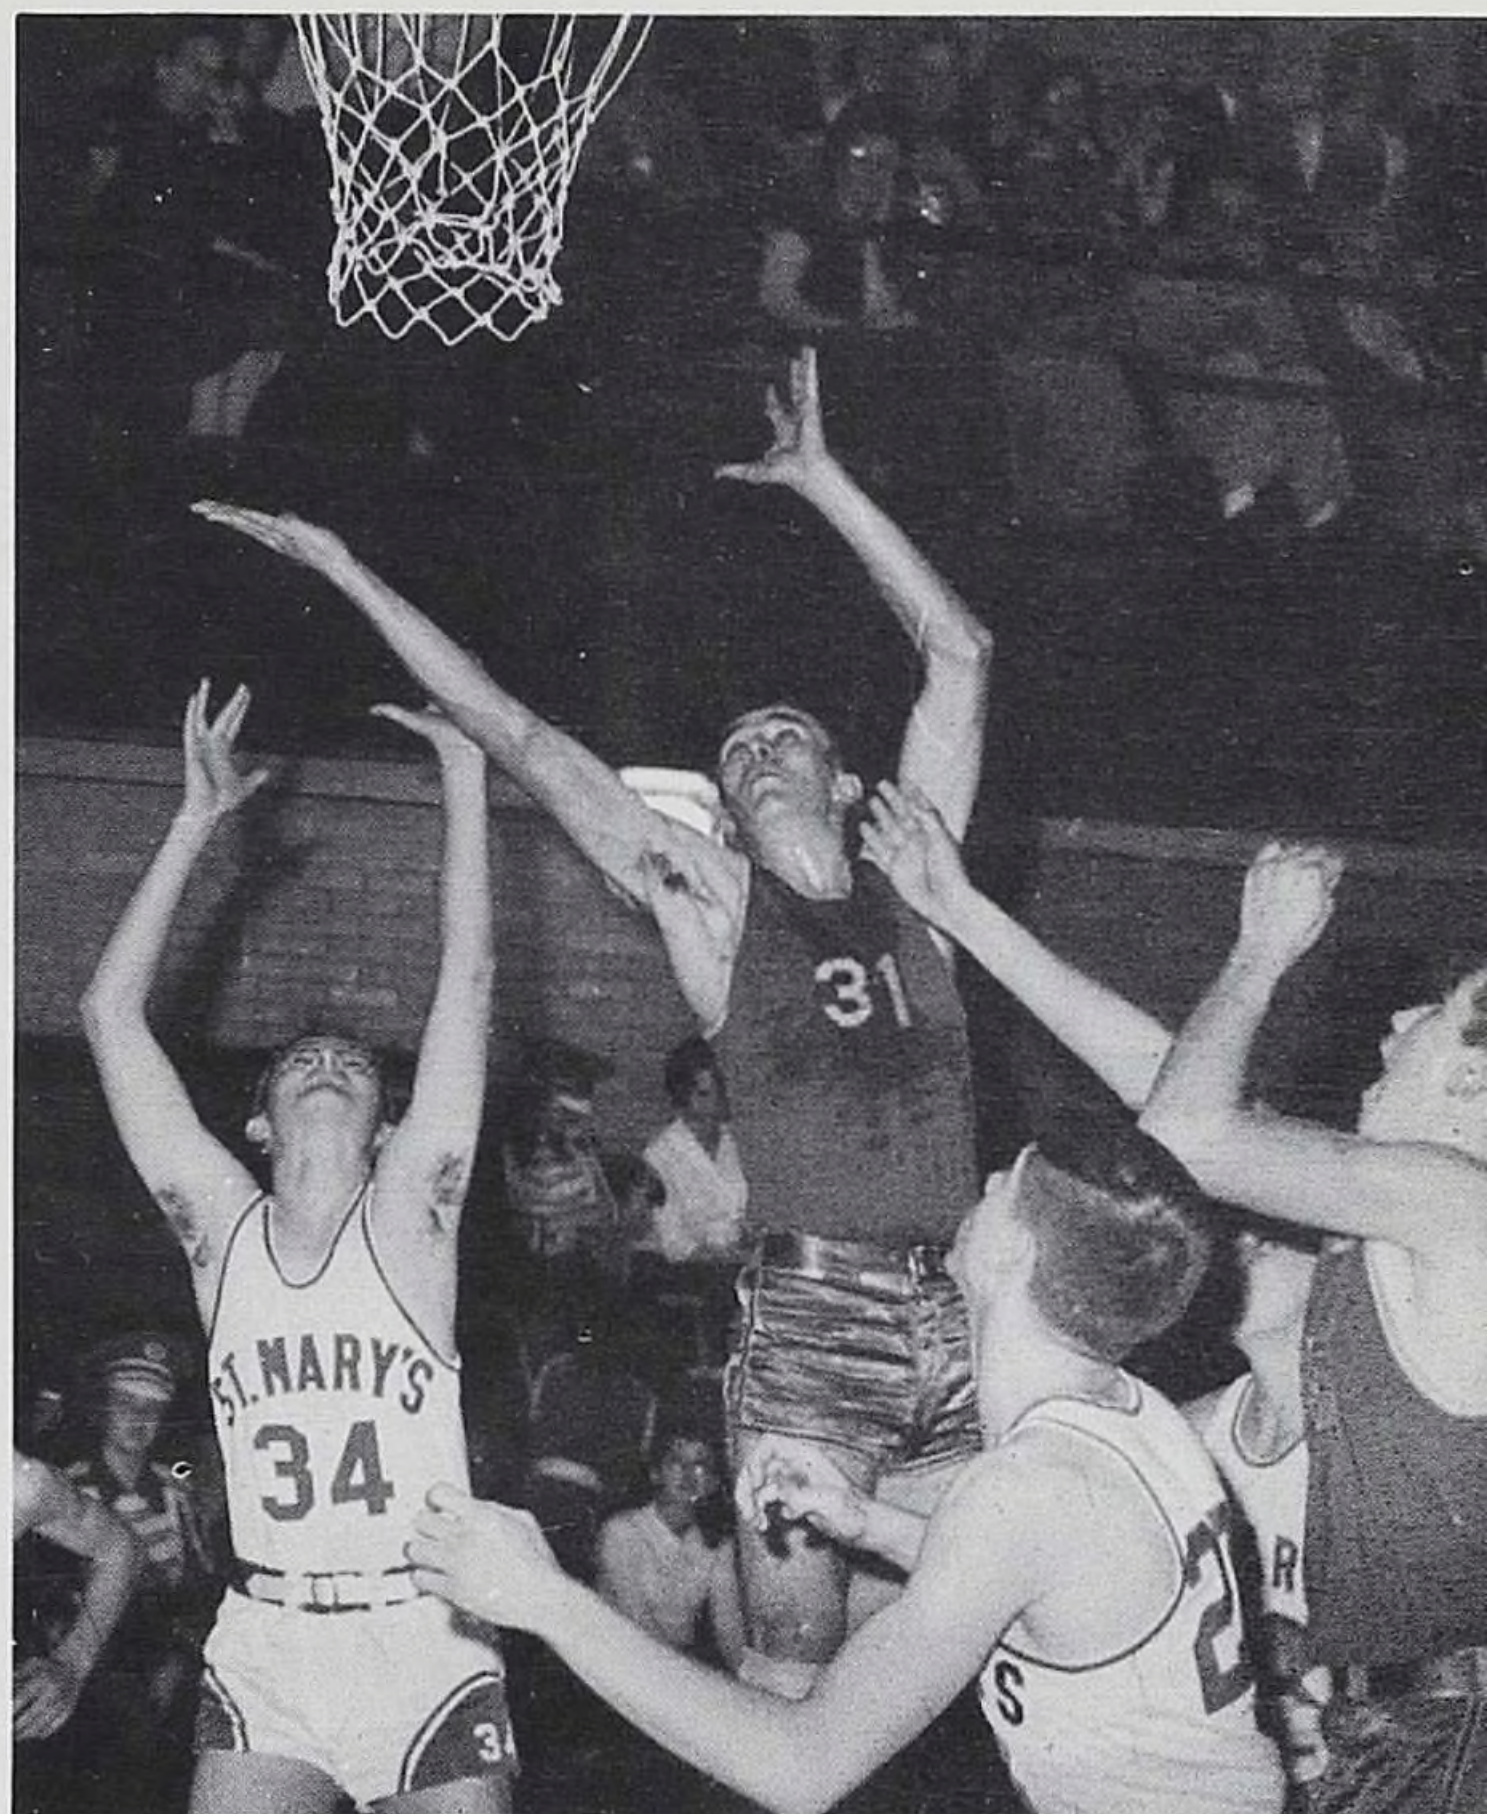

IN 1964

THE 1964 SEASON IN SUMMATION

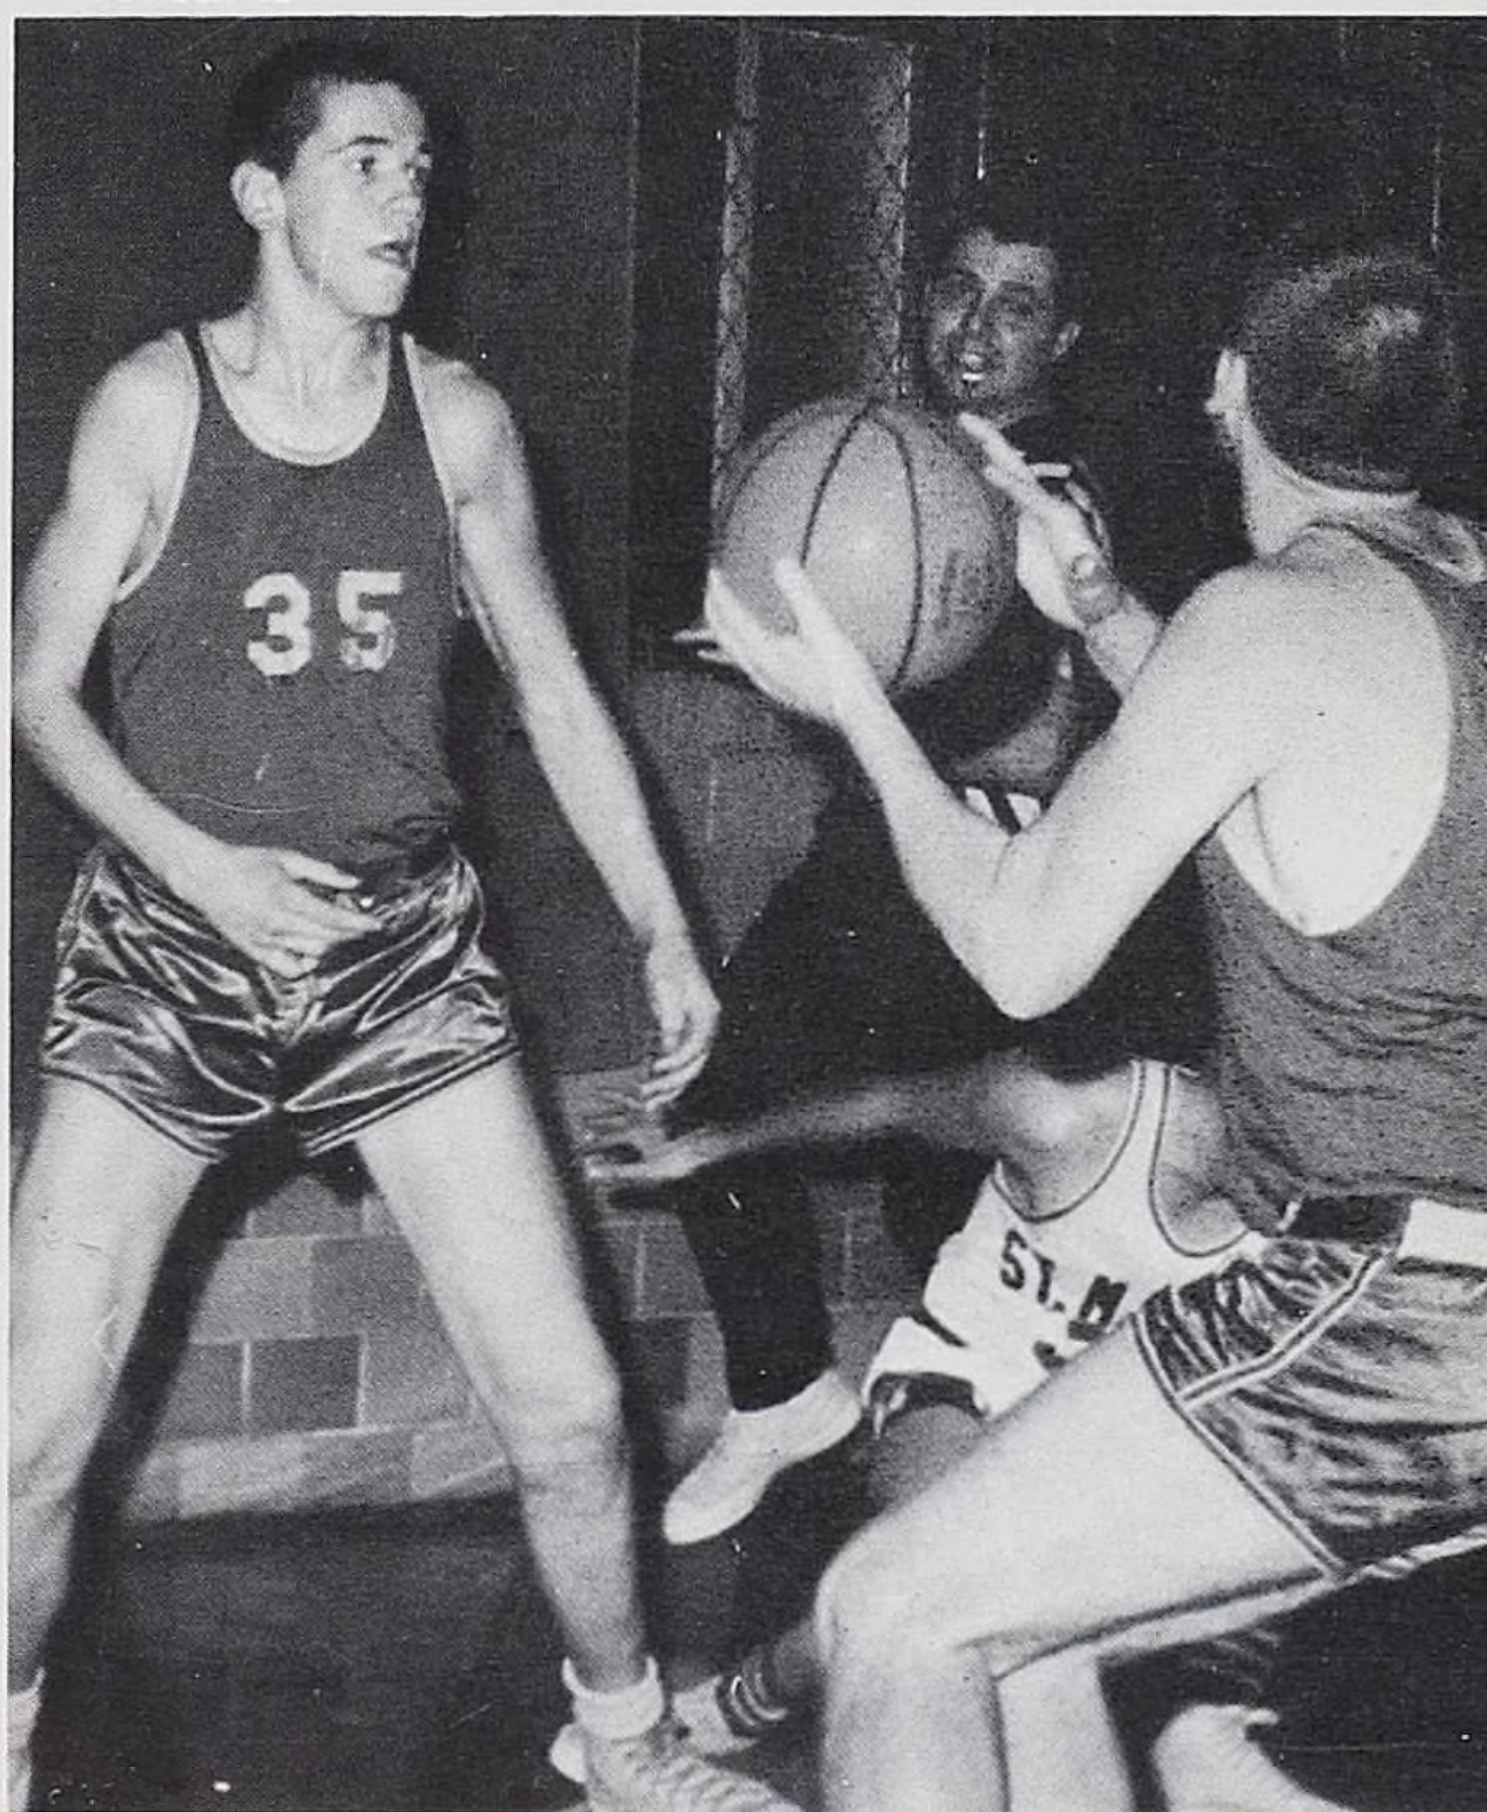

The true measure of the Trojan's basketball squad's season can be stated in one word, "improvement." Starting off the season by losing 8 straight, the Trojans finally settled down and played together as a team. Led by seniors, Larry Heinen, Gary Haug, and Dick Toby, the Trojans played a .500 ball in the K-36 League, winning 5 and losing 5 to finish in 0 tie for third place. They also captured a 3rd place trophy in the league tournament.

Jon Buser, sophomore, tries for a basket.

Larry Heinen, senior, jumps high for a successful rebound.

Allan Waller, sophomore, guards as Jerry Luebbe, junior, attempts a shot and Matt May, former S.P.P.S. coach, referees.
